BETHELITES.

(By F. M. B.)

The writer has endeavored to side-step this column for several issues with some success, but the accumulation of mail and requests from the high school poet, Miss Cross-Barr, and others for further "spasmoid-icals," as one correspondent chooses to term the efforts of the writer, I will clear the desk of the accumulation.—Beth.

A North Side lady, who does not sign her name, wants to know if I believe that a roller skating rink is "elevating." You should sign your name, lady, as an evidence of good faith. Personally, I have found it otherwise, but that was on account of a little misapprehension regarding a certain perpendicular equilibrium. A clothes brush should be included in your paraphernalia if you are a neophyte. These utensils will be found necessary in the removal of the chalky accumulation that will appear on your downfall. Aside from this drawback, roller skating is said to be exhilarating, not elevating, and at times excavating.

"Alice," at Falls City, says that some Dallas fellow who wrote her a letter last June ought to be exposed. While this is not the exposition department, we are willing to give the little girl a hearing. She wrote a Dallas boy friend: "Today I autoted to Black Rock, where I Sundayed with a friend. In the afternoon we croqueted, then ice-cream and lemonade, and at bed-time I nearly croaked." Alice says that the Dallas fellow never wrote her but once since, and he said, in part: "The same day that you autoted I poked all the forenoon and baseballed in the afternoon, churched and girdled in the evening, and then curfewed." The boy is probably joking, Alice.

The Eola teacher who has made three requests for the renewal of the "whisker" column, should cease repining. She evidently wants something ticklish. Even an Eola school teacher will at times get in the wrong pew. Being a married man these requests will hereafter go to the editorial graveyard.

From the catarrh chorus: "How's your catarrh?" "Oh, it don't seem to be do better." "What you takid for it?" "Oh, ncthid; I beed usid sulphur ad bolasses, though, ad account of havid the hives, too, ad botter said id would helb. It didd't helb butch." "Sabathy Jodes says she has beed tryid catdip tea ad hot batls, ad cut out workid so hard—wait till I sdeez—why, what I was goid say was, how do you like the slow? Pretty Serre, wasd't it?" "I should rebark. Cub up sub time. Good bye."

To the Salem Route I correspond-ent who asks: "Would you consider it fashionable or polite to have your initial worked on your lingerie?" Lord, no, girl! (The office is short on exclamation points); but I would never do anything like that myself.

Electricity For Emergency and Auxiliary Heating

Science has not yet perfected electric heating so that it can be relied upon economically for complete house warming. Recent marked reductions by manufacturers in the prices of electric radiators, however, have made them exceedingly desirable for emergency and auxiliary purposes.

For quick heat in bathroom, sick room, nursery—any place in the house—at times when the house heating system is working at low efficiency, electric radiators are both economical and superior to anything else.

On very cold days and nights Electric Radiators can be used for auxiliary purposes with splendid results.

Certain business places, such as meat markets, can use electric radiators to warm certain rooms or compartments without unduly heating the whole establishment.

Electric radiators may be obtained at prices ranging from $5.00 to $10.00. They are safe, efficient, simple, odorless, easily portable. Attach to any lamp socket. The cost to operate is from 5 to 10 cents an hour, according to size.

Purchase from your electrical supply dealer or communicate with our New Business Department.
