The raising and razing of pennants furnished plenty of excitement last Thursday and Friday. After the tenth grade pennant had waved for half a day, it was rudely assulted by heroic hands and the eighth grade pennant went up, only to suffer destruction. When boys from town came and took down the second flag, three boys were excused and recaptured a large fraction of it. But every body is keeping in a pretty good humor.

Director B. F. Jones gave a very appropriate talk on the occasion. Principle R. W. Kirk told of the origin of our flag. Some of the seventh grade girls sang, "Just a Bit of Cloth but it's Red, White and Blue." Barbara Frietchie was recited by Vale Hilterbrant. Each of the grades gave a flag salute. The one given by the advanced grades was the silent salute used by soldiers and sailors.
