Yesterday afternoon the rain began falling, but it is not certain that the cold snap is over. Forty-eight hours reasonably warm rain will start the rivers in good shape and Portland will get a lot more water than it wants.

The Ontario Optimist of last Thursday says: "Since some time Tuesday night or yesterday morning an appreciable quantity of oil has continuously been coming from the oil well. This seems rather wonderful, as the drill has not even been at work for two or three days, but many people in Ontario know that it is true, for they have seen the oil very plainly".

A warehouse association has been formed at Joseph, it being the intention to have but one warehouse there, all the people cooperating in this effort to accommodate the shippers and wool-growers without the expenditure of a dollar by those interests. The construction of a large warehouse will start immediately, and will be completed and a wool baler installed in time to accommodate this seasons wool clip.

The flow of 300 gallons a minute from artesian wells sunk near Luzon, Benton county, Wash., along the North Bank road, may revolutionize irrigation in eastern Oregon, says the Pendleton Tribune. The firm which sunk three wells has 1000 acres of land and has more water than is necessary for successful irrigation. They are sinking a fourth well so as to handle the water more advantageously. The wells have been drilled in at a cost of about $1000 each.

The following comes from a well known lawyer of Medford and it cites an actual occurrence in that live southern Oregon town: The other day Dave Wood and Grant Stone were standing by the depot, when they caught sight of a woman on the train, wearing a sheath gown, Wood turned to Stone, Stone turned to Wood, and they both turned to rubber.

Would Follow His Example.

After the battle of Prestonpaus a witty Scottish farmer amused himself by writing a ballad upon it, which so stung one of the English officers, who had behaved very basely on the occasion, that he sent the poet a challenge to meet him at H. for mortal combat.

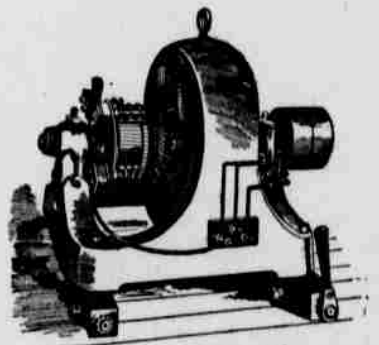

The second found the farmer busy with his hayfork and at once delivered the challenge of the redoubtable hero. The good natured farmer, turning toward him with the agricultural implement, coolly said:

"Gang awa' back to Mester Smith and tell him I hae nae time to come to H. to gie him satisfaction, but that if he likes to come here I'll tak' a look at him, and if I think I can fecht (fight) him I'll fecht him, and if I think I canna fecht him I'll just do as he did—I'll run away."
