The Herald was presented with some of J. B. Stump's fine walnuts last week; also filberts. The large size and fine coloring of these nuts makes them better than the California nuts. Here we have no hot days to make them bitter and discolor them, so that bleaching is unnecessary. It will not be five years before this section of the state will be noted for its fine nuts for every year from now on will increase the yield. Walnuts begin bearing here the fifth year and as there are a number of groves from three to six years old it will be seen that we will have a fine lot to dispose of.
