Equip The Normal Schools

The state is not going to start up half a dozen normal schools again, but should have one first class one.

That is the verdict of the people, and it should be respected, and the school at Monmouth should be made a state institution.

For this purpose it should be supplied with a tract of land and modern building and athletic grounds and equipments.

Monmouth should separate the local public schools from the normal, and the school should be built for fifteen hundred students.

The narrow view of this matter that makes the normal school a mere prey for somebody to get jobs out of, has got to be abandoned, and broader views of the state institution have got to prevail. — Capital Journal

Eugene Has Made Good

Eugene, Feb. —The tests made of the Jewell filter plant in the municipal water supply are satisfactory, and the company having the contract is ready to turn the same over to the city. This insures an abundant supply of absolutely pure water, and removes all questions as to the appropriation for new buildings for the State University. There is general rejoicing among citizens here.
