With the shearing season about to open, the mohair growers of Oregon are encouraged by the prospect of a paying price for their staple. One lot of Texas hair, suitable for combing purposes, has been sold for 30 cents a pound, and the Boston market quotes the best combing stock at 35 cents. It is believed that the coast growers will receive a better price for their clip than was realized last year. With the steadily increasing demand for mohair goods and the small supplies of hair in the hands of the dealers, indications point to a profitable year for the Angora breeders.—Observer.

At the time the Masonic Grand Lodge of Oregon convenes in annual session in Portland, June 14, next, three leading Oregon Masons will convene a session of the Oregon Grand Lodge on the slope of Mount Moriah, in Palestine, a mountain noteworthy in Masonic history, says the Oregonian. It will be the first time in the history of Oregon Masonry that a session of the grand lodge of this state has been convened in the Holy Land. The men who will participate in the unique ceremony are Rev. J. R. N. Bell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Corvallis; Professor J. B. Horner, of the Oregon Agricultural College, and Dr. J. Hill, of Albany.
