THE CITY ELECTION

The city election passed off quietly Monday, but the vote was not so large as that cast at the election last December. We presume that the difference was on account of men who were away at work.

There were 92 votes cast, of which 61 were in favor of bonding the city and 31 were opposed to it.

REGULAR PORTLAND LETTER

PORTLAND, Ore., June 6.—A tri-county development league, comprising Sherman, Morrow and Gilliam counties, is a lively possibility in the near future. At a recent Portland Commercial Club luncheon, the development of this section was discussed. Conditions were described and the need for diversified farming, rather than sticking to wheat growing, was emphasized. To stimulate interest, it was suggested that prizes be offered for the best products and a tri-county fair, to be held in the fall of 1912, may be arranged. The Commercial Club realizes this section is one immediately tributary to Portland and that it can be made much more productive than at present.

Interest in fruit raising for a preserving plant recently located at Lebanon was aroused at a meeting in Brownsville on the night of Decoration Day under the auspices of the local commercial club. It is possible a fruit growers' union will be formed that will work in harmony with one lately organized at Lebanon. The Portland Commercial Club was represented and it is believed that more attention will be paid to fruit growing in that section of the state.

Portland will have a commission form of government as soon as the required changes can be brought about. Mayor Simon has named a committee to draft a charter providing for the new form and the recent city election will only hasten the change, as all candidates were favorable to it.

Premium lists for the state fair next September have been issued. Premiums amounting to $16,000, and $25,000 in racing purses will be hung up on the harness events alone, in addition to the awards for running races. General plans for the fair are well under way and it is promised this year's exposition of the state's resources will be bigger and better than ever. Dates have been fixed for September 11-16.

Portland and Oregon Development League officials took a prominent part in the convention of the Southwest Washington Development Association, held the first three days of the month at Chehalis, thereby building up a better understanding between the two states. The Oregon delegation received many compliments for its interest in its northern neighbors.

Oregon threshermen held a successful convention in Portland during the past week, there being a good attendance from all parts of the state. Good roads was quite naturally a subject in which much interest was shown, and other angles of the threshermen's business were considered.

For Sale.
