Allen Clark made a business call at Salem last Monday returning home the same day. He reports the capitol city as a lively place and that the road is in an excellent condition between Independence and Salem.

Jacob Smith did some very good road work in Monmouth the latter part of last week, removing the mud and rough rock from the street and filling a low place with dirt and rocks, improving the streets very materially.

We have read of Grime's goat with its attractive sign plastered on its side, but it is not nearly so applicable as one painted on the side of an exceedingly poor horse, which belongs to this locality, which read: "Oats wanted." The artist seems to have fled too precipitately to finish the job, for somehow there comes a suggestion of "Enquire within."
