A Running Race.

A ball team from Monmouth went to Independence Sunday afternoon for a game with that team. Some remarkable plays were made in the way of errors. Every one done their share in knocking the ball to all corners of the lot, and two home runs were made by the Independence boys. It greatly resembled a running race more than a ball game. The boys here say that if the ground had not been so rough and they could have had a little more practice, they might have won the game. That small if causes a good deal of trouble some times. The final score stood 25 to 7, with Monmouth at the small end. Eight innings were all that were played. The Monmouth boys were a trifle discouraged and declared it was no use playing the last inning.

Zook the Painter, will hang your paper for you.
