Clean up! Clean up! If you don't your place will look like 13 cents alongside your neighbor who has made a clean sweep. Dig up those briars, clean out that old fence, then stand off and admire your work. Let us bring order out of chaos.

There will be two teams furnished, by the city, to haul away rubbish Saturday. This is the time set to clean up the city so gather into boxes and barrels, what you cannot burn, set it out on the sidewalk where the teamsters can get at it and the agreement is that it shall trouble you no more. A little effort now and we will have a much nicer looking city.

Zook the Painter, will hang your paper for you.

Gone East to Attend Stock Sales.

On last Friday afternoon J. B. Stump, Clark P. Hembree and Allen Clark left for a trip East, going by way of Chicago, the party to return by the Southern Pacific.

Messrs. Stump and Hembree are stockmen and will attend some large stock sales while in the East and in all probability will bring a lot of blooded stock back with them. Mr. Clark accompanied them and will visit his relatives in Tennessee for a few days, returning with Messrs. Stump and Hembree. The party expects to return in about three weeks.

The Black Cat Hoodoo.

Messrs. E. W. Strong, Walker, P. H. Johnson, and Miller and son autoed into the Alsea country leaving here Saturday the 11th, returning Sunday night, or rather early on Monday morning. While in the Alsea country they visited Rev. W. W. Davis and found him and his family enjoying good health. The mountain roads are reported as very good, but bad roads were encountered just this side the Alsea Valley, and thereby hangs "The Tale of the Black Cat," which Mr. Strong sums up after this fashion: If you are out with an auto, and a black cat crosses the highway in front of you, turn around and go back or stop right where you are and save trouble, or else you will need to send for Walker and Johnson to patch tires for you.

It seems that a black cat crossed the road in front of them on the way home, and while the members of the party are not over superstitious, trouble began and the remainder of the journey was not finished until after midnight, the tires being patched up with rope when they arrived home.

If the party had been in the Middle West they would probably have used the hickory-writhe to bind up their troubles.

The Black Cat Hoodoo was set up ready to run last week but was crowded out.
