NEWPORT, Or., June 3.—Otto Wellander, recently promoted to superintendent of the Pacific Coast division, United States Life Saving Service, left Newport yesterday for his new office in San Francisco.

Superintendent Willander has been captain of the Yaquina Bay life saving station since 1900. Mrs. Willander and their son, Holt, will remain in Newport probably a month longer. Although the successor to Captain Willander is not announced, it is thought that Thomas Stitt, captain of the lifesaving station at Point Arena, Cal., will be transferred to Newport. Captain Stitt was formerly No. 2 surfman here and has an excellent record.
