The Fire-bug and the East Wind.

BY E. T. ALLEN

"No, I'll not burn my slash this spring"
The moss-back logger said,
"I'll trust to God and luck again;
Expense is what I dread."

"It's time to hit the trail again"
The careless camper said,
And left his little fire ablaze
Within its leafy bed.

"I'll light another cigarette"
The idle loafer said,
And chucked his old snipe in the brush
One end still glowing red.

"Let's punch the screen out of the stack"

The donkey fireman said,
And so he did and all the sparks
Sailed blithely overhead.

"Come on, we'll dump our ashes now"
The railroad trainmen said,
The train soon fanned them far and wide
As on its way it sped.

"Good time to fire my slashing now"
The thrifty rancher said,
And touched it off without a thought
Of how far it might spread.

"I think I'll blow an hour or two"
The restless east wind said,
Then liked it so he changed his mind
And blew a week instead.

"Millions in lives and timber lost"
The newspapers next said,
What made those fires all start at once,
We wondered as we read.

"It wasn't us, it was that wind"
The fools in chorus said.
So they're alive and loose this year
—We hope the wind is dead.
