Two More in Jail.

Two more prisoners have all the comforts of home in Polk's palatial quarters next to Joe Sibley's offices, they being H. Bristow and Clifford Young, two Portland young men who inveigled Fred Lind over the river from the Capital City on a so-called swimming stunt. In their combined intoxicated condition they upset the boat, and later, it is alleged, and pretty well sustained by witnesses, that they beat up Lind and took away his money. They had a trial before Justice Holman Saturday, and he bound them over to the grand jury under $500 bonds, which they could not furnish. Lind is a paroled convict, and is again in his old quarters at the pen.—Dallas Itemizer.
