SUPPORT GOOD MEASURES.

Among the measures to be disposed of by the voters of Oregon, and one which the HERALD favors is the Millage Tax bill.

This measure is calculated to take the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural College out of politics and place them on a new foundation where these institutions will not be dependent upon the whims of any political party, nor be made offensive as a trading stock by their supporters having to vote for and champion doubtful measures in order to secure votes in support of appropriations for their perpetuity.

The necessity for these higher institutions of learning becomes more apparent as time advances and the good effects are observed. There was a time when if a person could read and write, and cypher a little, such person was considered to have sufficient knowledge to insure his or her success. Now it is different, intelligence is advancing with stupendous strides, and there are problems continually coming up for solution which require greater research in their disposal and the greater knowledge has become an absolute necessity, and this is not all, for the difficulties of today will disappear in the radiance of tomorrow while new steps in the mountain of progress will appear, only to be passed by in the upward trend of progression.

There was a time when if the son could maintain as regular a furrow, when following the plow, as his father had been able to make, he was considered efficient in farm lore, but it is not so now. There are difficulties to be met, and to make farming a success, these difficulties must be overcome, and how can this be done easier than to maintain and support an institution which is continually reaching out in a scientific manner to conquer impediments which arise to obstruct the way of the agriculturalist.

Both these schools need the support of your ballot as each in its sphere will prove a mighty factor in the progress and development of our great commonwealth, Oregon.

And while you are inclined to work for the uplift of our beloved state, do not forget to give a boost for the Blue Sky Bill, and make it harder for rogues to organize and swindle the unwary out of their possessions.

Road Measures.

Nine road measures are submitted to be voted upon at the general election. Two of these are the so-called Grange bills, six are the "harmony" bills, the other the County Home Rule bill, which is designed to solve in simple fashion, the problem of county road building and gives to counties the right of self government in road matters now enjoyed by cities.

The Home Rule bill is similar to the constitutional amendment voted by a large majority two years ago; except that it is self enacting and does not require legislative action to become effective. One Grange bill is an enabling act for the present law, but provides a clumsy and cumbersome machinery for operation. The "Harmony" bills limit the county indebtedness to two per cent, which would be fatal to many counties, as all parts of the county must be benefited by the highways to be built or the taxpayers will not vote the indebtedness, and two per cent will not provide sufficient revenue. There is no need to limit the indebtedness, taxpayers will not vote an excessive amount and if they do, the bonds cannot be sold. Cities are not limited, why should counties be?

Counties are left under this bill, to provide their own ways and means of action. The roads to be improved, the materials to be employed, the methods governing, are all left to the people of the county who are presumed to be able to govern themselves.

The Home Rule bill is made effective at once, without further legislation, and being a constitutional amendment does not require action by courts to settle its validity upon technical points. Its number upon the ballot is 360.

This bill is endorsed by Sam Hill, the noted good roads advocate and others interested in highway development.

To Voters of Polk Co.

Having received the Republican nomination for Assessor, I respectfully ask your support for my election November 5. My principles are: Rigid economy in office, courteous treatment to everybody. To be a servant of the people, not a boss; but shall be firm to do my duty without special favor and without fear. A careful and impartial consideration of every complaint. Cheerful assistance in looking up records, maps, etc. in the office. A low rather than a high rate of assessment. To be sure that property is not assessed higher in Polk county than in other counties, thus avoiding payment of more than our proportion of a state tax. To leave duplicate of assessment when made, and to notify you of any alterations, if any be made afterward. School district lines carefully drawn and property assessed in proper school districts. Large property owners' assessments in just proportion to the smaller. Corporations must pay their portion of the taxes. Favor community board of equalization to guard the best interests of the people.

Respectfully,

ARTHUR R. ALLEN.
