She takes me here, she takes me there,
She's full of ammunition;
She likes to take me anywhere
In any old position.
She takes me up, she takes me down,
My inclination spurning;
She takes me on the way to town,
She takes me when returning.
She takes me sad, she takes me gay,
She takes me still or moving;
She takes me several times a day,
Content or disapproving.
She takes me as I ride or fish,
In every kind of weather,
Rain, shine or fog; but, oh, I wish
She'd take me altogether.

OREGON BOY HELPS GIANT ROAD PROJECT

U. of O. Graduate Has Hand in California's $18,000,000 Highway Improvement Scheme.

U. of O., Eugene, Nov. 6.—As one of the engineers of California's State Highway Commission, N. R. Charman, an Oregon graduate in engineering of the class of '10, will have some voice in the spending of $18,000,000 on state road improvements. California has bonded herself in that amount for the completion of her road program before the opening of the Panama Exposition in 1915.

This work is already moving briskly. The State Highway Commission of California is supervising the construction of 60 miles of the new concrete country road.

The university department of engineering reports that the use of concrete for the country roads is very rapidly increasing. The State Highway Commission of New York is this year constructing 200 miles of concrete roads; one county in Wisconsin has 16 miles; and Wayne county, Michigan, now has a total of 73 miles. In some cases a very thin bituminous wearing surface is added, while in other cases the traffic is borne directly by the concrete.

Proclamation.

State of Oregon. Executive Department, Salem, Oregon, Nov. 7, 1912.

Whereas, The growth and prosperity of a state depend to a great extent upon its manufacturing industries for the reason that the factory converts the raw material of the forest and stream and farm and mine into products of higher value, giving employment to thousands who would otherwise have no means of livelihood.

Whereas, It is only by arousing the people to the importance of creating and patronizing home industries that we can hope for success along these lines;

Therefore, In view of the foregoing premises, I, Oswald West, Governor, by virtue of the authority in me vested, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 21, 1912, as Home Industries Day.

To make this day an impressive object lesson to the whole State there should be some concerted action toward increasing the demand for Oregon made products. To this end I would suggest that every manufacturing establishment in the State close down for an hour during Home Industries Day and the managers call their employes together and give them a heart to heart talk on the importance of building up our home industries and set an example by declaring their intention to use, as far as practicable, only home-grown products and home-made machinery in their establishments.

I would suggest also that on Home Industries Day every man and woman in Oregon, in doing their shopping, purchase only made-in-Oregon products. Merchants should help by making attractive window displays of such products.

I would also suggest that the subject be discussed in our public schools and institutions of learning, in order that it may be impressed upon the mind of the young, for the time will come when these same children must have employment, and unless they can find it with the industries of our State they must seek it in other states.

Success along these lines can only come through the hearty cooperation of all good citizens, and I bespeak for the cause such cooperation.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the State of Oregon to be hereunto affixed this seventh day of Nov., A. D. 1912.

OSWALD WEST, Governor.

by Joe Hallock, a junior, and Cliff Watson, a freshman, both electrical engineering students at the Oregon Agriculture College from Portland. They had temporarily hooked up to a tree in front of the Gamma Upsilon House, a 30-foot single wire aerial, to call some of their friends who are operating Marconi wires along the coast. They also picked up Victoria, B. C., San Francisco and several steamers.

Daddy Longlegs.

Most people are acquainted with the insect called "daddy longlegs," but not everybody knows that there is evidence to show that this strange little creature, towering high above its fellows on its thread-like stilts, is probably a more ancient inhabitant of America than any representative of the human species. Far back in tertiary time, at the very dawn of the modern world, its ancestors lived, we are told, in great numbers in that part of the continent which we call Colorado. The fossil remains of these insects show the characteristic features that mark them today, although new species have taken the place of the old. Even daddy longlegs knows what evolution is.

Willie's Sensible Answer.

The schoolmaster wanted to know whether the boys had an understanding of the functions of a British consulate. "Supposing," he began, framing his question in the likeliest way to arouse the interest of his hearers—"supposing some one took you up in an aeroplane and after a long, exciting flight dropped you down thousands of miles from home in a country quite foreign, what place would you seek out first of all?"

An eager hand was instantly uplifted.

"Well, Willie, what do you say?" "Please, sir, the hospital."—London Tit-Bits.

Scientific show window lighting produces even distribution of light over your entire display. Every corner of your window is attractively and brilliantly illuminated--there is no "spotty" effect.

Volume or quantity of light, however, should not be mistaken for good illumination. Glare is as bad as too little light. Scientifically planned by lighting engineers, a good window lighting installation will make your store prosperous.

Multitudes pass your store nightly. They are all prospective customers and not one of them can resist the attraction of well displayed goods set off by electric window lighting.
