OUGHT TO BE CAUGHT

About the last place a thief would be expected to visit is a church, and especially would his absence be looked for while services were going on, but the unlooked for usually happens.

Sunday night the Christian church was visited by some party having a bad case of un-conversion and P. B. Arant's overcoat disappeared with the sinner.

On the same evening the vestibule of the Evangelical church was visited and S. R. Ostrom was left to go home bareheaded and minus his overcoat.

This is the second time that coats and hats, or at least hats, have been taken from the Evangelical church while another attempt was made which failed, but it is probably not the same parties who have been doing mischief as the first lot of hats taken from the Evangelical building were found outside, it appearing that the object on the first occasion was just a lot of meanness, but lately the object seems to be theft. However whether it is theft or an overabundance of unadulterated meanness a good dose of wholesome justice might have a magic effect in saving attendants at church from annoyance.

A Real Take-In, Don't Read It.

The subject we are taking up is not for us. Those that think so, may and those that do, had better look to their future. This is a matter that confronts us every day of the year, every hour of the day and every minute of the hour. Some people look upon it with disgust simply because they do not like the men who handle it. Some people look upon it as an act of charity. Others do not understand it. The man in business who should know its value, is lots of times short sighted. Not the man who uses it and uses it right, charity to him commences at home. Why do the big manufacturers spend several hundred thousand dollars on it every year? Pay men big salaries to look after that one feature of their business. The wholesale and retail stores of the cities pay from $50 to $300 a day, each for its services and yet men tell you it doesn't pay. Why my! politicians cry for it! If it pays a man to sell goods, it certainly must pay better if he sells more goods and he is invariably, always looking for more sales. One man in Chicago gets a salary of $25,000.00 per year for what he knows about it. The Studebaker Corporation has just paid $6,500 for one days service of it. Do you think that they did it as an act of charity?

Do you think that here in the United States where millions of dollars are spent for it every year by the nation's smartest men, that it don't pay? No matter how small, no matter how big, it pays for itself according to its size. What is it? Oh! nothing. Just Advertising. Tut, tut. We told you not to read this.—Ex.

The HERALD expects to enlarge about the middle of January and has made arrangements whereby its readers will receive double the usual amount of reading, the addition being a four page six-column sheet similar to magazine literature and written by writers of high reputation.

The millionaire residents of Lake Geneva are discomfited. Jack Johnson, the pugilist and all-around-tough, has purchased a residence among them. They will probably make it as uncomfortable for him as the police did at Chicago.

He Advertised—At Last.

There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise;
He swore (it was his policy)
He would not advertise.
But one sad day he advertised,
And thereby hangs a tale,
The ad. was set in quite small type
And headed "Sheriff's Sale."

Electric Splendor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—Describing the illumination of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, W. D. A. Ryan, the illuminating engineer, who planned the lighting of Niagara Falls and the wonderful illumination of the Hudson-Fulton celebration, said:

"One of the special features will be the introduction of jewels in the place of incandescent lamps so commonly used at previous expositions. The whole effect will be surmounted by a forty-eight electric scintillator—one for each state, which will be mounted off the main axis of the Exposition, about five or six hundred yards out in the water. It will be placed on barges anchored in the bay, and will require sixty trained men to operate the lights. These will go through an evolution of color, forming Auroras and various effects in the sky and over the Exposition, and will spread like a great lilly, and will be seen in all the surrounding Bay cities and on clear nights will be visible in the sky for forty or fifty miles.

"We have a great deal of fog here and this will assist us greatly in producing wonderful lighting effects.

"The lighting of this Exposition will, without doubt, surpass anything in lighting in the world's history. One of the strongest features of the lighting will be the fact that effects will be produced here that have never been seen before.

"The entire lighting is new in every respect and it marks an epoch in illumination. The advance since the last big exposition in science and art of electric engineering and development of electric apparatus has been so great that we are now able to produce effects with economy, which would have been physically impossible five or six years ago. In other words the Exposition is to be a magnificent picture by night, with the architectural splendor brought out to the best possible advantage in both form and color, maintaining the daylight perspective."
