ACCIDENT ON LACREOLE ROAD

Wagon Turns Turtle Over Steep Embankment With Party of Dallas People

DALLAS, July 29.—Falling 20 feet straight downward, plunging and rolling beneath the heavy wagon, yet miraculously saved from death by several logs, was the experience of a party of Dallas people yesterday afternoon. As the result of the accident, H. P. Schriver, aged 72 years is confined to his bed suffering from a badly mangled right arm and bruises about the chest. Mrs. S. O. Thompson sustained a number of painful injuries, but is not in a serious condition, while her husband is nursing an injured shoulder and badly bruised leg. The splendid vitality of Mr. Schriver, despite his advanced age, will, his physicians believe, bring him safely through.

NOT FAULT OF DRIVER

The accident occurred about nine miles west of Dallas, on the LaCreole. The party included H. P. Schriver, his daughter, Mrs. S. O. Thompson, her husband and James Ross, driver. They left yesterday on a fishing trip on the LaCreole river. Owing to the heavy growth of weeds, Ross had difficulty in keeping in the road. Below, 150 feet, ran the little stream, and the driver using every precaution to keep the wheels as far away from the edge of the canyon as possible drove a little too far to the opposite side. Suddenly the wagon lurched slightly forward, and before the startled occupants of the vehicle realized their danger, the team, wagon and all turned turtle and fell over the steep embankment.

HOOFS POUND SCHRIVER

The first person in the party to recover from the shock was Mr. Thompson. He found Mr. Schriver on top of one of the horses while the other animal was pounding him with his hoofs. He was hurriedly disentangled and placed beyond danger. Mrs. Thompson was found beneath a heavy part of the wreckage, the entire weight of the wagon resting upon the side of her head and her face was entirely covered with dirt and gravel. The husband realizing her danger from suffocation dug the dirt from her face. Her ankle was found to be badly bruised. Disregarding her own injuries, she rushed to her father who by that time was regaining consciousness. The deep wound in his arm was bleeding freely and he was rapidly weakening from loss of blood. Mrs. Thompson tied her handkerchief about the arm thus checking as much as possible the flow of blood. Ross, in the meantime was looking after his team which he found wedged between the logs.

TELEPHONES FOR AID

Realizing the necessity of immediate relief, Ross walked to the rock crusher some distance from the scene of the accident and telephoned to Dallas. Mrs. Schriver was visiting her cousin, Mell Hamilton, in Salem, and word of the accident was sent her. Mr. Hamilton immediately brought her to the city by automobile, and they met the party returning about three miles from the wreck. They reached Dallas shortly after 1 o'clock this morning.

Late this afternoon reports as to the condition of Mr. Schriver were encouraging. Mrs. Thompson is still suffering from the shock. Mr. Ross sustained a scalp bruise and is otherwise slightly injured, but not seriously.

Daniels to Ride Through Canal On Deck of "Oregon"

PORTLAND, July 29.—"It will be the proudest moment of my life when I come through the Panama canal on the bridge of the battleship Oregon, followed by every other ship in the United States navy," said Secretary of the Navy Daniels at the banquet given in his honor at the Portland Commercial club last night, "and to take it to every harbor on the Pacific coast and to visit you with that great fleet here in your harbor on the Columbia."

The prediction, with its implied expression on the part of the cabinet officer of his faith in the harbor here, closed his short address.

"The growth and expansion that pertained every other city on the Pacific coast has made in the last few years is great, but I believe that it is a bagatelle compared to the growth and expansion that lies before you following the opening of the canal," said the secretary.

"The Oregon idea is coming to be the idea of all of the states, and we are coming nearer to the universal plan whereby no small circle of politicians can thwart the will of the people."

After spending a strenuous day in Oregon, including a trip to the mouth of the Columbia, Daniels and his party left for Spokane last night.

Girl Bathers Flee From Swarm of Bees

SPOKANE, WASH., July 29.—While half a dozen Spokane girls, who have a camp at Newman Lake, were in bathing one day recently, a swarm of bees took possession of their tent, where the girls had left their clothes, and compelled the bathers to spend the greater portion of the afternoon in the water.

The bees, looking for a new home, took up their abode in an old cooking stove in the tent and proceeded to make themselves at home. They refused to allow the girls to enter the tent, so the fair campers had to be satisfied for the time being with the scant apparel of bathers. Finally a farmer living in the neighborhood was attracted by the plight of the girls, and volunteered to remove the bees, paying the girls $5 for the bees and the old stove.

Five thousand rolls of Wall Paper to select from. Also paints, oils, varnishes, brushes, glass stains, window shades and decorations, carpets and furniture to order at P. H. JOHNSON'S BOOK STORE.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES

One of the Most Successful Summer Sessions Ever Held In O. N. S. Closes Today

The summer school session closes today, and it is the general opinion that it has been one of the most successful summer sessions ever held in the Oregon Normal School. Many students who at first had no notion of becoming regular students have checked up with the view of completing the Normal course later. The members of the faculty now will have a well deserved rest, and most of them, if not all, will spend their vacation outside of Monmouth.

Ex-President Ressler gave a very inspiring address at chapel last Tuesday, and at the close gave three vocal numbers which were greatly appreciated by all. Prof. Ressler is always a welcome guest at the Oregon Normal School.

Miss Cornelia Marvin, Secretary of the Oregon Library Commission, and a member of the Board of Regents, took the chapel time last Monday, speaking on the subject of libraries, and what the State library can do for the teachers and people of the State of Oregon. It was one of the most helpful and inspiring addresses of the session, and every one was sorry that she did not have more time. Miss Marvin was accompanied by Miss Hawley, State Librarian, of Salem. Miss Hawley was very much interested in the new dormitory, and expressed herself as highly delighted with its architecture and furnishings.

Mr. and Mrs. Evenden left Thursday for San Francisco where they will spend the next two weeks visiting Mrs. Evenden's parents. On their return Mr. Evenden expects to spend the remainder of the vacation in planning and assisting in building their new bungalow, which will be located on the north side of the street near Prof. Butler's residence.

School Garden Contest

The second part of the Training School Garden Contest was held last Wednesday afternoon in room No. 2 of the Science Department. Messrs. C. O. Constable and L. S. Chapin, of Salem, and Mr. H. E. Guthrie, of this city, acted as judges. The prizes were awarded as follows:

Best community garden; prize, a beautiful silver trophy cup, given by H. C. Seymour; won by 4th grade. Best six early potatoes; prize, a Babcock Milk Testing outfit, given by Monmouth Creamery; won by John Baker; Floyd McClellan second. Best six garden beets; a dollar watch, given by Perkins Pharmacy; won by Everett Evans; Joe Staats second.

In the contest among the Normal students the 5th grade division received first prize for the best exhibit.

The rest of the School Garden Contest will be carried out by the new Head of the Science Department, Mr. L. P. Gilmore, ac-ording to the plans laid out.

At this time we wish to thank those who have co-operated with us in making the work the success that it has been.

Contracts Awarded For Two New Buildings

Contracts have been awarded by the Board of Regents of the Oregon Agricultural College for the erection of the central portion and one wing of the men's gymnasium and for the domestic science wing of the home economics building, to Snook & Traver, of Salem. The contract price of the gymnasium, exclusive of heating, is $68,600, and for the home economics, exclusive of heating, $49,900. Bids ranged from these prices, which were the lowest, up to $99,671 for the gymnasium, and $71,102 for the home economics building. The heating contracts were awarded T. M. Barr, of Salem, at $7,830 for the gymnasium and $5,465 for the home economics building. The buildings will be constructed of stone, trimmed with galvanized iron cornice, harmonizing with the other buildings on the upper campus. The home economics wing will be ready for use in February, and the gymnasium in early spring.

The call for instruction in the various branches of domestic art is greater each succeeding year and the new home of this department will be more in keeping with its importance. When completed with the necessary modern apparatus installed, the course, already recognized as among the best obtainable, will be still further extended and improved.

The main hall of the gymnasium will be 155 ft. 8 in. by 94 ft. 3 in. and the west wing 94 ft. 3 in. by 52 ft. 9 in. In addition to the main gymnasium or exercise floor there will be sufficient locker room, showers, steam room, treatment room and director's offices as well as boxing, wrestling, fencing and other specialty rooms. As soon as the physical education of the men is transferred to the new gymnasium the present gymnasium will be fitted up for the exclusive use of women.

Federals Gain Victory Over Rebels; 700 Revolutionists Killed, 1000 Wounded

MEXICO CITY, July 28.—A wireless from Monclova says that 700 rebels were killed and a thousand wounded in an 18-hour battle which ended yesterday at Coahuila. A general mass of cavalry, it is declared, completely routed the rebels. The federal loss is not estimated.

The battle started when the federals surprised the rebels. They captured 30 cannon and took many prisoners and seized a big supply of stores and scores of horses. The rebels are said to be in a condition of utter demoralization and are scattered over a wide area with the victorious federals in pursuit.

EAGLE PASS, TEXAS, July 28.—Confirmation of reports from Mexico that the constitutionalists have captured San Luis Potosi, a city of 8,000 population, near Mexico City, was brought by refugees. The battle raged two days and 200 soldiers on each side were killed. An army of 4000 rebels expects to attack Saltillo this week and then the entire force will concentrate as a single army and attack the capital.
