Lend Helping Hand

The University of Oregon has always been forced, under a system prevailing since 1873, to ask each legislature for funds with which to operate during another two years. The Oregon Agricultural College has been compelled to do the same. These maintenance bills have frequently become the storm center of the political struggles within the legislature. The University and the Agricultural College, therefore, have constantly been accused of engaging in politics, and of the unacademic practice of political trading; and their dignity and usefulness have been correspondingly impaired.

Passage by the 1913 legislature of the millage bill provided for automatic maintenance of each institution after next year. A fraction of a mill on each state levy was set aside for the University and a slightly larger fraction of a mill for the Agricultural College. Thus, as the state grows, the two great schools are expected to expand. The legislatures since 1908 have at each session passed bills providing such additional room but each time a band of persons hostile to the University on personal grounds have invoked the referendum. This year the University, with double the attendance it had in 1908, and with the largest freshman class in its history, is holding classes in all sorts of unsuitable places, while waiting a favorable verdict from the people so it can build.

To the University of California alone, this fall, went 74 students from Oregon. To the University of Washington, to Leland Stanford University and to numerous eastern institutions, went hundreds of others. These students should be kept at home and educated to understand and to assist in solving the problems of their home state. They are, however, loth to register in an institution where the voters have not yet frowned upon attempts to kill it, and where the "No Room" sign may have to be hung out at any time.

To sustain the two modest appropriations, the money for which is already provided for, vote "Yes;" to vote "No" is to vote for the referendum.

Attempt Made to Poison Inmates

SALEM, Or., Oct. 27. —A wholesale attempt at poisoning was made Sunday night at the industrial school for girls when strychnine was placed in the tea and coffee and served to the officials and the inmates.

The only thing that saved the lives of those who partook of the beverages was the fact that so much poison was used as to make the drinks bitter. This led to an investigation and the discovery of the plot.

Mrs. Effie Creswell is alleged to have induced Stella Morgan of Albany, Lydia Hill of Columbia county and Lula Smith of Corvallis, all of whom worked in the kitchen, to put poison in the drinks, according to a confession which the girls are alleged to have made.

Good lighting is as important for the children as good food and pure air.

Electric service with proper lamps and shades, not only means good and economical home lighting, but light that is healthful, clean, safe and convenient.

The ideal time for housewiring is the fall. Then you can start the winter evenings with the cheer and comfort of the best lighting.

An estimate of the cost of wiring your home may be obtained for the asking.

Watch Talk

IF it has been longer than eighteen months since you have had your watch cleaned and oiled, in all probability you are abusing it.

Ordinary machinery, when in constant use, is oiled several times daily, while a watch is often allowed to without any attention.

DON'T subject your watch to such misuse. If you do you may find yourself in possession of a useless time keeper.
