Drowns in Siletz

Plunging over the high cable bridge which spans the north fork of the Siletz river at the junction of the north and south forks of two streams, carrying down into the icy waters 50 pounds of provisions, Charles Maize, a homesteader living in the Siletz country was drowned yesterday, according to word which reached the Sheriff's office early this morning.

Roy McMurphy, deputy sheriff of Falls City was the first to receive word from the Siletz country, and immediately phoned the news to the sheriff's office here. According to the brief story as told by McMurphy last night, Maize was crossing the bridge when he either stumbled or the planks gave away beneath him. It is understood that there were two men on the bank of the river who witnessed part of the tragedy, but they were unable to render help before the body plunged into the swift waters of the river and burdened by the heavy weight of the pack which was strapped across his shoulders had been swept down the stream. —Dallas Observer.

FREE HIP BONE

The season's most notable innovation is the perfection of the "Free Hip-Bone" idea in the new BON TON and ROYAL WORCESTER corsets.

This clever, new idea or feature, as expressed in these models, is absolutely practical. It assures supreme comfort, makes the corset fit snug and smooth, yet gives ample freedom to the wearer's hip bones whether seated, standing or walking.
