

With the Churches

Christian Church.

By H. F. JONES.

Those girls and boys from the seventh and eighth grades, who sang for us last Sunday morning, may have our platform again any time it is convenient for them. Thanks, young people, come again.

Any one who stays in bed until nine o'clock will have to hurry if they get to the Bible School session at 10 o'clock next Sunday morning.

The preacher was mistaken when he thought he could satisfy a bunch of boys and girls with forty minutes of object lessons and illustrations. We'll try it again sometime, young folks.

There were some vacant seats last Sunday, which are usually occupied. Why not bring her to the seven-thirty service next Sunday evening, Bill.

The prodigal son has not returned at this writing, but his family arrived Sunday. Mrs. Prime and children are home after trying the Roseburg climate. Hurry up, Jim, a lot of folks are dying to say "I told you so."

Monmouth is a protected town, according to State Health Officer White. He referred to the danger from smallpox. You cannot purchase immunity from sin that way.

A constant reminder of the dedicatory services may be had in one of the pictures of the church taken on dedication day. See them at Davidson's studio.

Don't blame your ancestors if your teeth are on edge; you ate the same apples yourself.

Don't kick us, we are not responsible for either the clock or the custom of having the communion service and sermon at 11 o'clock on Sunday morning.

We are liable to have nervous prostration some of these days over you young folks who do not attend the C. E. meeting at 6:30 Sunday evening.

We are not in real estate, but we would like to help you find a church home. If there are questions or problems which trouble you we will be glad to talk them over with you.

BOWLING BALLS.

Making Them Is Slow Work, With Long Waits Between Each Process.

A bowling ball looks as if it were easy to make, yet its manufacture involves a long process covering a period of three days. The actual time put upon it is only a matter of three hours, but the work is slow and requires long waits between each step toward completion. A log free from knots and cracks is first cut into pieces a trifle larger than the diameter of the ball after it is finished. This allows for two little projections on either side called "bits," where the clamps of the lathe hold the block of wood while revolving at lightning speed under the keen edged tool cutting into the hard fiber like a sharp knife slicing a fresh cheese.

This preliminary turning and trimming occupy only a few minutes, when the block is shaved and pared down to the required size. The bits then are cut off and the whole thing sandpapered. A coat of shellac is applied, and the ball is put one side to dry. It then gets another sandpapering. This is no sooner done than the workman again carefully applies the shellac brush. When the shellac dries the second time the surface is rubbed with oil. The work doesn't stop then, for the moment the oil has dried the ball gets another vigorous sandpapering. Then for the last time it gets more shellac. When thoroughly dry the sphere is ready for the two holes to be cut for the bowler's thumb and index finger. The last stage of the laborious process is the polishing, which gives the ball the appearance it has when it reposes on the rack waiting to be sent crashing down the alley.

Sometimes there is a considerable waste in cutting up the logs because of cracks and fissures in the wood. On this account an ordinary sized log may yield only one block sound enough to put on the turning lathe, while it ought to make six or seven. The life of the average bowling ball is about two years. The best balls cost $5 or $6, while the cheapest scale down near the dollar mark.—Exchange.
