Joseph Craven was caled to Portland this week to serve on the Federal Jury. He will probably have a three or four month's siege of it.

Mayor Johnson is out one long-handled shovel since Good Roads Day and wishes to know who has one shovel too many. "Fess" up now and be good.

This section of Oregon was visited with some heavy frosts, this week, and considerable damage is reported in places, especially to the peach and prune crops.

S. G. Collins, of Shedd, was a Monmouth visitor Tuesday, being accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lancey, from Bellingham, with whom he had been visiting his son who lives at Independence. Mr. Collins, who is now 93 years old, is a former resident of Monmouth, having moved away from here in the year 1875. He was well pleased with the improvement that had been made since he moved away.

E. H. Lorence and C. D. Tyler, accompanied by their better halves, made an auto trip into the Airlie Country Sunday, but they are not very highly impressed with the condition of the roads in that locality. Mr. Tyler says that he was out there a few days before and that they stuck in the same mudhole again and that the only difference was that on this occasion they pulled out by their own power while on the other occasion it took a team to accomplish the job.

One of our enterprising young townsmen who has conquered the intricacies of the automobile, has started in to master the bicycle. A few evenings ago while indulging himself in this exhilarating pursuit, being headed down the street in front of the postoffice, the bike got away from his control and headed for the curb against which it colided with a suddenness that made him think for a moment that he had exchanged for a flying machine instead and he didn't light very downy-like either. Cal says that perseverance will conquer yet.

Today's Magazine

Through arrangement with the publishers of TODAY'S MAGAZINE for women, we are enabled to supply that interesting and useful magazine to any person for the sum of 50 cents a year.

A description of this magazine will be found elsewhere, in this issue, and sample copies can be had by applying to the HERALD Office.

In order to increase the circulation of the HERALD and gather in some needed cash, for the next 30 days, or during the month of May, we will give Today's Magazine to each new subscriber, or renewal to the HERALD who pays one year in advance.

This offer also applies to persons in arrears who settle back account and pay one year in advance. Call and get a sample copy.

The Work Goes On

Good Roads Day was generally observed in Monmouth, and while the business houses did not close, business men generally either turned out and labored on the streets or donated money to help carry on the work, and some did both. Main street was graded from the east side of town to the west side of the city limits, and Monmouth avenue north to the dormitory, while the citizens on the south end of the street subscribed money to have that part of the street graded.

Mayor Johnson, H. C. Ostien and others subscribed enough money to have the street fronting their property graded the length of the block. Joseph Craven and C. G. Griffa had the street graded fronting their property on Jackson street. Of course all the work was not done Saturday, but it has been going on since.

Report from Independence says that the work reached out in all directions throughout the district, and that there were about 300 persons who turned out to work there. In Monmouth the turnout was about 100 persons. All the male members of the Normal school, both faculty and students, were in line and the ladies of the normal prepared a nice lunch for them.

The city has been benefitted, but how much can only be measured by the influence that has gone out and the results that will follow the examples that have been set.

Improvements made are always more or less an incentive to others to make improvements also, and let us hope that Monmouth will long profit by the beginning thus inaugurated.
