Local and Personal

Take your best girl, young man, and investigate that chicken dinner at Hotel Monmouth, Sunday.

Irene Taylor of Portland is spending a couple of weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. O. A. Wolverton.

Co. L., O. N. G. of Dallas goes today to Seaside to take part in the annual encampment of the 3rd regiment.

Mrs. H. Foss and son Ray who were here for a week visiting friends, left Sunday for their home in Portland.

Mrs. R. H. Simpson spent Saturday and Sunday at Eugene visiting Jesse Simpson and wife, returning Monday.

Misses Lorena Daniel, Elt Portwood and Lela Erickson are home for the summer vacation, having closed their schools last week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Strong were Portland visitors last week during the hailstorm there. Mr. Strong reported that the hail covered the bottom of the bed of his auto to a considerable depth.

E. M. Haley closed his school at Airlie last Friday and on that evening the school presented very attractive exercises which were well attended and appreciated. Mr. Haley will teach at Falls City next term commencing in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Price of Scappoose, Oregon, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Strong, Tuesday night. They were on their way to Corvallis to be present when their son Lloyd would graduate.

Suffers Crushed Ankle

Fred Burk, a step-son of S. H. Brown, who lives on the Salt Creek road, is at the Dallas hospital suffering with a badly crushed ankle, the result of an accident while he was employed on the highway near his home. Young Burk was assisting in moving a log off the road, when it swung around, knocking him to the ground and rolling upon his right ankle. It is thought that the smaller bones may have been fractured, but this cannot be fully determined until the swelling is sufficiently reduced to permit examination.—Observer.

LIGHT AND FLOWERS.

Why a Garden is More Fragrant by Night Than by Day.

The light we receive from stars of the first magnitude, like Vega, is equal approximately to a forty thousand-millionth part of that of the sun. It is calculated that the total light received from the lesser stars is equal to that of 3,000 stars of the first magnitude, or a sixth part of that which is sent to us from the moon.

Light exercises a mechanical pressure which can be measured in the laboratory. It has been shown by experiments with artificial light that in its production enormous quantities of energy are dissipated.

In an ordinary wax candle the total energy which is transformed into light is really but 2 per cent. Gas and kerosene lamps are not more economical. On the other hand, the glow worm transforms into light, by means yet unknown, 90 per cent of the total energy expended.

It is known that light influences very largely the aroma of flowers. A garden is more fragrant when it is shaded than when the sun is allowed to shine in full blaze upon it. This, at any rate, is the conclusion of a Frenchman who has recently made a vast number of experiments. That which affects the fragrance of flowers is not the oxygen of the atmosphere, as has been commonly supposed, but the light.

According to the same authority, the intensity of the perfume exhaled by a flower depends upon the pressure of water in the cells of the plant, which tends to throw out the essential oils that produce the odor, and the action of the solar light diminishes the pressure of the water.—New York Press.
