J. F. Smith was in Monmouth, Wednesday, trading. He reported harvesting about done in his section, but that the grain crop was much lighter than was expected. It seems that it did not fill out. He also reported that the crop of clover seed would be very light this season.

A picnic was given at the Stump home at Suver, Sunday, at which a number of Monmouth citizens were guests, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Stump, Mrs. Mary Campbell, the Misses Butler, W. E. Smith and Miss Pearl Davidson. A most enjoyable time was had by those present.

H. J. H. A. Z. Swackhanner, who passed through Monmouth some time ago and who borrowed the use of our typewriter to write a letter, was apprehended at Roseburg. It seems that his penchant for writing letters has gotten him into trouble as he has been writing rambling letters of how the Southern Pacific Company were oppressing labor and sending them to headquarters until orders were issued to apprehend the individual. He was arrested at Roseburg and locked up in jail there.

WALLPAPER
PERKINS PHARMACY.

In Memory of Mrs. T. O. Waller

Once more the grim reaper of death,
Approached to the long standing corn,
And one from our midst has taken
To await for that beautiful morn.

One more has gone to mansions above,
Where saints are walking in paradise fair;

One more has passed beyond our sight
To the glory of God's infinite care.

May the works which you have left us,
Speak mutely with eloquence rare,
And the songs you have sung us
Still linger on the desolate air.
