

Oregon Logan Berry

The glorious flavor of unfermented loganberry juice, rightly diluted and sweetened, as a drink, has been known for some time to most residents of the Willamette valley, but until recently this boon has been denied to mortals outside this favored region. For about a year however, efforts have been made by interested parties, with the Salem Commercial Club as the central moving agency, to let the world know what it is missing. Their success has only been what might be expected when once this ambrosial fluid is tasted. Wm. Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State at Washington, D. C., was recently induced to sample the drink and at once ordered a case to be used at state dinners to diplomats. Now that the great commoner has decided to use the nectar brewed from loganberries, when entertaining functionaries of our own government and dignitaries from foreign countries, its wide-spread use seems assured and loganberry growers are strong in the conviction that the Wilson administration has a great Secretary of State and they appreciate his value as an advertising agent.—Rural Spirit.
