

Reduction on Buggies and Harness

Whether you are thinking of purchasing a buggy or not or if you are needing new harness, come in and look our stock over; you will want to buy when you see what we have.

That old buggy that you have been driving for the past several years won't hold together much longer, and now is your opportunity to get a new one while the prices are lowered.

Forest Notes

Fire fighting in Oregon, Washington and Alaska, since July 1, has cost the government $50,000. Most of the fires were prevented from doing any material damage to merchantable timber. The majority of them were confined to old burns.

The Forest Service has in Oregon and Washington a total of 4062 miles of telephone and 4028 miles of trail. These are primarily for use in fire suppression.

The Forest Service has, in Oregon and Washington, over 100 high lookout points constantly manned during the fire season. The best known of these lookouts is Mt. Hood.

An officer of the Forest Service has designed a portable telephone for rangers, which weighs only two and a half pounds. Connection may be made anywhere along the line with this instrument. Over one hundred of them will be used in Oregon and Washington next year.

Success has followed forest planting on the sandhills of Nebraska. Jack pines planted there by the government forest service ten years ago now have a height of over 15 feet and a diameter of 4 inches.

Only one modern sawmill is operated in the Territory of Hawaii.
