YOUR MOTHER

Achievements may have crowned you
And polished up your name,
But don't forget your mother
Through all your worldly fame.
Perhaps her life was irksome
In some barren little cot,
But your little comforts, friend,
I'll bet she ne'er forgot.

Ah! I know she's punished you
Although it caused her pain,
And when your little tears were dry
You found her just the same.
When the evening shades had gathered
And the gentle zephyrs blew,
Then she'd hush your tiny troubles
With familiar hymn to you.

Perchance she dwells some far off land;
This would be the nicest way,
Just drop a line to let her know
You've not forgotten mothers day.
She will read it o'er and o'er
When the light is burning low,
Sitting in the old armchair
Where she nursed you long ago.

E. EMERSON.

LOCAL AND STATE NEWS

A romantic story is being told around Independence relative to the feat of Dennis McMurray, who arrayed himself in woman's attire and so "passed the guards" at the home of Wm. Stanton in East Independence. Later the masquerader went out for a walk with Mrs. Stanton and did not return. It developed they had eloped and according to the story, headed for Canada where they hope to enjoy one another's company unmolested. McMurray was a party with Mrs. Rexford to a charge of arson in the burning of a hotel in Independence last year. The elopers are both about 25 years of age.

FOUND—Ladies' sterling silver brooch pin. Also gentleman's tie pin. Owners may have same by calling on W. B. Eggleston and describing said pins and paying for this advertisement.

The building of the new highway bridge across the Willamette river at Salem has now reached the place where the courts of the two counties are discussing the merits of a concrete bridge and a steel bridge.

Monroe Burford of Dallas died April 27th after a long illness. He was 68 years of age, was born in Illinois and came to Oregon in 1852.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Nelson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fritz and R. H. Smith and wife were visitors at the J. F. Smith home Sunday a week ago.

The weatherman was unkind in his product for the doings scheduled for Monmouth the latter part of last week. After attempting to spoil the May day exercises the rain settled down in earnest Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday morning the track meet in which the Monmouth high school was to meet the Dayton high school was declared postponed to some day when the weather is more favorable. It is quite likely the meet will be held a week from next Saturday, May 20th.

A Child Welfare Exhibit was on display Tuesday and Wednesday in Room 12 of the Normal building and was viewed by interested townspeople and students. The exhibit was sent out by the State Childs' Welfare Commission and consisted of photographs, drawings and charts illustrating the various weaknesses of humanity, especially children. The exhibit dealt with the efforts being made to cope with these deficiencies, physical, mental and moral, and also suggested the need of additional effort to remedy the evils.

Editor Clark of the Independence Enterprise was a caller at the Herald office last Friday being one of the visitors called to the city by the May Day exercises at the Normal.
