The men of the Odd Fellows demand the credit for the banquet which was disposed of at their recent anniversary celebration. Inadvertantly, the Herald last week gave the credit to the women. The women have done the honors in times past but this time the men wanted the feeding part of the program in their own hands. They bought their cakes, sandwiches and ice cream and also did the serving and clearing up of the dishes and now receive credit where credit is due. Since the feed the doctor has not reported any unusual appearance of stomach troubles so the feed must have been all right.
