gorgeous costuming, its wonderfully effective staging and perfect rhythmical dances was a spectacle not soon forgotten. Even the least important characters made much of their parts so that from Queen Elizabeth to the most wretched beggar there was not a single character whose part was not perfect. To Miss Todd, Miss Taylor, Miss Hoham and Miss Parrott belongs the honor of producing the play. They were assisted by the Misses Workman, Galbreath, Hall, Hood, Foster, Miller, Luebke, Van Meter, Thompson and Cramer. The complete list of persons in the play will be found on page 6.

One of the most complete and interesting programs ever given by the Oregon Normal School Alumni Association was presented on Tuesday evening, June 13, in the Normal chapel. The enthusiastic spirit, the large attendance, the large accession of new members were all contributing factors of the fine program which is given in detail on page 6. Of special note were Miss Armilda Doughty's paper, Mr. J. D. Butler's address and the president's remarks by Mr. E. S. Evenden. Every number, however, was indeed splendid.

Following the program of the Alumni Association the annual banquet was held in the dining room of Normal Hall. Here about two hundred guests enjoyed to the full the good cheer and fellowship so genuinely the spirit of the Normal on all occasions. Judge Harry Belt was the able toastmaster who elicited most interesting responses from Judge Burnett whose girls of '73 were the happy inspiration of the evening; Mr. Ivan Wood, the Senior Class representative; Mr. Gentle, Mr. J. B. V. Butler, Miss Irene De Armond; President P. L. Campbell who spoke of the progress of the school; and Mr. Burns Powell. President Ackerman closed the speech making with a masterly talk on "Executive Dreams" in which he spoke of urgent needs of the school. Music by the Normal quartet and Miss Augusta Baker, together with impromptu songs, added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

Anna Wood; Treasurer, Mrs. Alva Craven. Through the county unit plan of organization it is hoped to rouse greater interest by a more compact organization of local groups which will perfect their own organizations and then send representatives to transact business at the yearly meetings. This plan unites local alumni closely at institutes and in neighboring counties. The Alumni association of the Oregon Normal is already a splendid enthusiastic one and by this new plan it is hoped to conserve this enthusiasm and to provide more far reaching areas of influence for the association.

The Senior Class Play, "The Queen's Masque," staged under the fine big trees on the west part of the campus with a background of pungent fir boughs and with the mellow afternoon sun lighting up the brilliant costumes and the fairy like dancing was the cynosure of all eyes on Tuesday afternoon. The play itself with its play within a play, its
