Joe Clark who for five years has been first lieutenant of the Herald printing office is now regularly enrolled as a marine in the navy and is getting accustomed to his new duties at Mare Island, in San Francisco Bay. He left Monmouth for Portland Saturday having first undergone a preliminary examination and passed it successfully. On Monday morning he was examined in Portland and passed and in the evening was started for the south. The marine corps which he has joined is a portion of the soldiers of the sea in the service of Uncle Sam and promise the new recruit a considerable opportunity to see the world as well as do his mite in behalf of the flag in time of danger. Joe promises to keep us informed as to his movements and we look forward with interest to notes of marine soldiering.

Little Alliee Hembree the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hembree fell and broke her left arm Tuesday morning. She was learning to ride a Shetland pony which had just been presented to her. Her mother was leading the pony when the little girl slipped off on the farther side breaking the bone just above the elbow. It was a complete fracture as was shown by an X-ray picture taken at Dallas. The bone was promptly set. The little girl is now at Allen Clark's where the case is being looked after by Dr. Matthis.

A stolen auto was the sensation of Northwest Monmouth last Sunday evening. C. H. Parker was called from church with the announcement that his auto was missing. Marshal Moreland was routed out and the search was on. It turned out that the auto had only been borrowed for as the search party stood at the garage the car came up. The driver saw the search party, stopped a few yards away, turned off the lights and hastily decamped.

Rev. W. A. Elkins has received notice of his promotion in the Chapln Corps from the rank of 1st Lieutenant to the rank of Captain, dating March 28th. This is an appointment that in regular routine comes in seven years time although in time of war may be made sooner.

Lester Wattenburg, son of the late S. P. Wattenburg, and who has been an invalid during his few years, died at the family home near Fossil Monday. He was born with a defective heart and blood from veins and arteries mixed and flowed in both channels.

It is reported that Dad Graham and Mrs. C. C. Mulkey will indulge in a potato raising contest on the lot between the garage and bakery the winner to get a dozen lemons, purchased by the loser.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Craven and daughter were Salem visitors Saturday. They were accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. J. Stuart Albert of Salem, who spent the remainder of the week end in Monmouth.
