Chas. L. Barnes died in Dallas January 6th. He was born in Pelham, Mass., in 1859. He moved to the state of Washington in 1890 and to Dallas in 1900. He was a bridge builder and carpenter, working for the S. P. His funeral services were conducted by the Free Masons.

Jack Ryan and W. M. Kelley who were arrested at Albany and brought to Polk county charged with burglary at Falls City, were tried in Dallas and it turned out that the county had no evidence against them. Kelley, who runs a second hand store in Albany pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods and was fined $250. Ryan was allowed to go free.

The Salem bridge across the Willamette was thrown open to foot passengers last week, and is expected to be available for automobiles and wagons in the near future, in the event that no more floods appear.

As there were only two jury cases to come before the court in its present term, Judge Belt has set them over to the next term and will have no jury trials during the present session.
