Sunday School at Home

Governor Withycombe has issued a proclamation appointing October 27 as Go-to-Sunday-School Day. The date was established by the International Sunday School Association for observance thruout the North American continent. Because of the present epidemic the Oregon Sunday School Association, thru its general secretary, Rev. Harold F. Humbert, is asking every family in the State to set aside a period during that day for prayer and Bible study at home.

A Quiet Wedding

A quiet home wedding was that which occurred at the home of C. H. Parker in North Monmouth Sunday afternoon. The interested parties were Miss Gladys Parker and Mr. Carl Bingman of Independence. Only close relatives on both sides were present and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Victor Morris of the Christian church. Mr. Bingman has been accepted for army Y. M. C. A. work but at present is attached to the local draft board in Dallas where for the time being the newly wedded couple are residing. They have the best wishes of many friends in Monmouth and vicinity.

Evans Changes Regiment

According to a letter received from Corporal E. Stanley Evans he has been changed from the 3rd battalion, 162nd infantry and he is now attached to general headquarters, Provisional Company of Infantry. We gather this is a decided promotion. Corporal J. Norval Gates is the only member of Company L with him at present, the two being the only non commissioned officers chosen from the 3rd battalion.

Items of Interest

Miss Emma Parker has been out of the bank this week being under the weather.

Bruce Rogers and Ora and Bob Hinkle who are in the navy service, stationed at present at Bremerton, are in Monmouth this week on a week's furlough.

The family of E. L. Comstall who recently went to Eugene, are planning to return to Monmouth to live.

Mrs. Stella Henry of West Salem secretary of the Republican Polk county central committee was a visitor in Monmouth Sunday afternoon.

Floyd Moore was over from Dallas Monday looking after his political fences in this vicinity.

Dr. Powell, who has been quite sick for the past three weeks at the home of Ira Powell, is reported convalescent.

Ten Years Ago

Oscar Johnson of Dallas, a member of Company L is reported missing in action.

(Items from the Monmouth Herald of ten years ago.)

The bakery operated by Radek & Smith burned to the ground with a loss of $5,000 half covered by insurance. The Graham dwelling next to the bakery was saved after hard work, with a scorched roof. 1300 phonograph records were lost in the fire.

Mrs. J. F. Powell died in the Salem hospital of tumor on the brain.

A miscellaneous shower was given to Miss Bertha Fream in honor of her approaching marriage to John Robinson of Alma, Mich.

Because of removal to Eugene, F. L. Campbell disposed of his interest in the Polk County Bank and resigned as vice president of the institution. J. B. V. Butler was elected to fill the vacancy.

David Campbell was taking a course in music at Walla Walla.

CONSERVE SUPPLY OF FEED

Greatest Economy in Feeding Grain During War Should Be Practiced by Dairymen.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

National necessity during the war requires the greatest economy in the feeding of grain to live stock. Human beings must be fed first, yet milk production must be maintained. That does not mean that our dairy cows should be starved or even that they should be required to live on half rations. This is the very time they should be fed, and well fed, in order to maintain sufficient supplies of dairy products for our own armies and the armies of our allies, and still have enough for our civilian population. In order to feed the dairy herds well, with the minimum of grain, substitutes must be furnished for at least part of the grain. With a good pasture during the entire summer and with rich corn silage and first-class legume hay for winter feeding, good dairy cows will yield a heavy flow of milk at a minimum of cost. Clover, alfalfa, cowpea, soy bean, velvet bean or other legume hay, when fed with good silage, will maintain a medium production of milk at a relatively low cost. Under ordinary farm conditions it is not to be expected that legume hay will take the place of the entire grain ration, but if it is substituted in part, large quantities of grain will be released for human food.

The first step in bringing this condition about must be the planting of more legumes, and the sooner it is done the better it will be for the individual dairymen, as well as for his state and nation. Every dairy farm should produce, when possible, at least one ton of legume hay for each cow on the place.

Fruits and green vegetables are canned so as to supply succulent and palatable foods for the family during the winter. Succulence is just as essential to cows as to a human being. The abundant milk flow obtained from June pasturage probably is due, to a large extent, to the succulence of the grass. Silage provides succulent feed during winter when pasturage is not available. With silage in the ration, dairy cattle can be kept in the condition of health common to animals on pasture. The digestive system of a cow is well suited for the utilization of large quantities of green grasses and other coarse, succulent material. Silage is palatable, and no other feed will combine so well with dry hay and a little grain to produce maximum economical results.

The preservation of the mature corn crop or the saving of one which for any reason must be harvested before maturity by placing it in silos is deservedly increasing in popularity. About 40 per cent of the total food material in the corn plant is in the stalks and leaves. When only the ears are harvested nearly one-half of the crop is lost; on the other hand, when the crop is put into the silo the losses are very small.

No feed crops can be so successfully harvested under such widely varying conditions as those that are put into the silo. Only in case of drought or frost is it necessary to rush the filling of the silo; rain or dew on the forage does not injure the silage.

Army Pronouns.

Pronouns and their definitions as the army understands them are quoted in a camp journal as follows: I—the rookie; You—the sergeant; He—the colonel; We—the gang; They—the Hun; It—the war; His—what the Kaiser will get; Theirs—what the Hun will get.—Outlook.

Attention, Fellow Republicans!

Republicans as fellow partisans have never had cause to be more proud of the fact than at present. Born in the struggle incidental to the development of human liberty, our party has always been foremost in its defense of American institutions; for their maintenance at home and for the furthering of their proper respect and credit abroad. The Republican party has always been aggressively American. It has ever been an unfaltering advocate of our flag and our democratic institutions.

We honor the name of the immortal Abraham Lincoln and a long line of illustrious statesmen who have followed in his footsteps and commend them to the people of the nation as evidence of the fact that devotion to liberty and the essential doctrines of our free institutions are inherent in Republicans.

This record is doubly reassuring at the present time when into the throes of a world in death grapple is flung the wealth, the manhood and the ideals of our country to preserve for posterity the blessings we have heretofore enjoyed. The world old struggle of feudalism, versus individual rights; of the divine rights of kings versus the right of the people to rule themselves, is at stake, and we rejoice that we are able to play a prominent part in that contest.

We exult in the part which prominent Republicans are taking in the civil and military portion of that struggle. In finances, in ship building, in national organization of war work, in the personnel of our military leaders, Republicans are proud of their representation and it is only when it comes to politics that we feel in a sense, humiliated. Politically, indignities have been placed upon us and our leaders in a manner that must make every Republican who cherishes the name of our party and of its splendid record, burn with resentment.

Fellow Republicans, this is our own fault and we have it in our power to correct it. Oregon and Polk county Republicans never had less excuse for deserting the ticket than they have this year.

We have a splendid lot of candidates.

From governor down to coroner, there is not a weak spot in the line. They deserve your suffrage and as you honor yourselves, your country and your state, and at the same time the splendid old political organization of which we are a part, bear these things in mind. Attend the poles on November 5, and vote the ticket straight.

For governor, James Withycombe, a true patriot who is a leader among the war governors of the nation. The prominence of Oregon in war work is due in a large measure to its patriotic governor. Sane, energetic and capable, he is the right man in the right place and should be retained there.

For U. S. senator, Chas. L. McNary, personally known to many people in Polk county and who is practically one of us. His record is his recommendation and the confidence which the people of the state have in him is reflected in his vote at the primaries. Republicans are needed in the U. S. senate and McNary is especially needed there by Oregon.

For Congressman, W. C. Hawley, whose splendid record in the lower house is eloquently testified to from the fact that this year no candidate could be found to oppose him.

For state senator, I. L. Patterson and for representatives, W. V. Fuller and Ben F. Jones, three good men who will do honor to their districts and who have practically no opposition.

For sheriff, John Orr, whose disinterested work on the draft board has given Polk a high reputation among the counties of the state. An official who has made good and who should be reelected by a big majority.

For county treasurer, A. R. V. Snyder and for coroner, R. L. Chapman, men who have no enemies in the county and no opposition. You can't beat them. You might as well join the crowd and vote for them.

For county clerk, Floyd D. Moore, who has made good as school supervisor in a manner that insures his making a good county clerk. Courteous, intelligent and a hard worker, he will render the county good service. Vote for him.

For county judge, E. C. Kirkpatrick, whose experience as a business man has been of large advantage in his conduct of the business affairs of his office. A man distinguished for his sanity and fairness, his sagacity and integrity, he is a valuable public-servant and should be endorsed by a large popular majority. Vote for him.

For commissioner, Thos. Graves, recommended by his neighbors, tested by his friends, he will make a capable and efficient officer. A vote for him is for increased efficiency in the service.
