Evangelical Church Notes

Sunday February 8. "Preparing for our Heavenly Home" is the theme for Sunday morning. In order to prepare for our heavenly home we must learn what to expect; therefore we shall consider, What are the pleasures of heaven? How take part in them? How shall we put ourselves into harmony with our heavenly surroundings? To such questions we must find some true, tho perhaps incomplete, answers. Is it useful or sensible to be thinking of heaven or have we enough to do for today without concerning ourselves about the future? The sermon will close with a most beautiful poem, entitled: "Thine eyes shall see the King in his beauty."

The Sunday School officers extend a hearty welcome to all to be in the Sunday School service at 10. The Y. P. A. is having very interesting services Sunday evenings at 6:45.

The evening sermon will be on: "What do I glory in?" In this sermon we expect to show how tall a man is mentally and morally by what he glories in.

An open door and a welcome hand to all of these services.

Mrs. Arant will take orders for the California Perfume Co. formerly represented by her daughter.

SALADS AND SANDWICHES FOR VARIOUS OCCASIONS.

A sandwich is never out of season, for it is the substantial part of a meal at whatever time or place it is served.

If one desires a large quantity of filling for sandwiches, the following recipe will be a good one. It will be low. It may be easily divided for dressing may be used on potato or other vegetable salads:

Cheese Sandwich Filling.—Mix together one cupful of sour cream, three eggs, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of sugar, a few grains of cayenne, or a teaspoonful of muslard and one teaspoonful of salt. Beat all together in a double boiler until the eggs are broken; set over hot water and stir until it begins to thicken. Add three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, hot, to the cream mixture. When cooked until it coats the spoon, set aside to cool. Put one and one-half pounds of cheese, two green peppers, and two sweet red peppers through a meat chopper. Mix together, and add enough of the dressing to make the mixture spread easily. Use on thin slices of bread.

Onion Sandwiches.—Chop fine a Bermuda or Spanish onion, and mix with a little well-seasoned French dressing. Spread on buttered bread and serve for Sunday night sandwiches (after chow chow).

Carrot and Nut Sandwiches.—Mix together one-half cupful each of ground carrots and nuts (peanuts, walnuts or pecans may be used). Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half tablespoonful of olive oil, one teaspoonful of lemon juice. Mix thoroughly and spread on slices of buttered bread.

Pressed Egg and Ham Sandwiches.—Chop fine six hard-cooked eggs, one green onion and one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of pepper. Mix with one-half teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of prepared mustard. Place half of the mixture in a small, greased pan. Press down, then add a layer of chopped ham, using one and one-half cupfuls, finely chopped. Finish with the rest of the egg mixture; pour over two tablespoonfuls of soup stock and place in a cool place until molded enough to slice.

Why One's Temperature Rises.

A person's normal temperature varies according to the hour of the day, the work he is doing, the food he is taking and other causes. One who plays several games of tennis in the hot sun will find that his temperature goes up to 102 F. But the reaction speedily sends it back to or even below normal.

Dr. Frank H. Wunne of Indianapolis described to the members of the American Medical Association the effect of physical examination on the temperature of men called up in the draft. In 324 men fear and suspense sent their temperature up to 99.3 F. (average for all); of these 17 per cent were normal (98.6), 16 per cent were subnormal, 67 per cent were higher than normal, and 15 per cent were above 100 F.
