He jokingly told of his experiences at the reunion, how he went over the field looking for landmarks that might be recognized and found the ravine where he had dismounted from his horse and a little farther on the identical hole he had made in the ground with his nose when stretched out flat he tried to escape being a target for the rebel bullets.

HOW MEN OF PERFECTLY INNOCENT PURSUITS ARE HANDICAPPED.

—Dog-whippers, bulldog burners, pig-breakers, beetle-cutters, and worm-trimmers sound like extremely cruel individuals; though, as a matter of fact, they follow perfectly innocent vocations in metal mining and manufacturing. Mule-taming, in comparison, would appear a mild, if puzzling, job to those ignorant of the existence of mules which are not quadrupeds but an important part of the machinery in the cotton and woolen industries.

A man might reasonably be reluctant to engage in certain trades if he paid too much attention to the names of some of the people in them. He might shun the acquaintance of slashers, twisters, and even of slayers in the textile manufacture; of sluggers and branders (boot trade), of deadening men and wipers-out (glass trade), of bumpers (textile engraving), (hat-making), punchers (cocoa), scratchers (lamps), spitters (needles), tangle-makers (nails), and rippers (coal mining).

Similarly, it would be wrong to refuse our confidence to grafters, hot-air men, and jolliers (none of whom have any connection with stories of American crooks), of to huckers, gassers, nobblers, and underhand picklers. They all play a harmless part in the industry of their country; and their technical names, when misunderstood, give a totally false impression of their characters.

Peculiar Cause of Cellbacy.

Cellbacy is almost unknown among the Mordvins, and when it does occur it is nearly always the result of a vow, especially in places where Russian influence is strong. Sometimes a girl is not married in consequence of a vow to a deity—if, for instance, has ruined the crops or some misfortune has befallen the family. Such young women are termed the "wife of the hall king."

Where Platinum is Found.

Platinum is recovered principally from the beds of streams, the particles having been deposited there through erosion of large rocks, classified geologically as "tertiary conglomerates." The platinum grains are found with gold, the proportion varying from 5 to 50 per cent of platinum. The two metals are recovered by washing the sand and gravel of streams.
