WEAK WHEN RESCUED

Stepmother, Arrested, Declares the Boy Incurable, and "Roasts" Neighbors for Interfering—Proper Home
Will Be Found for the Lad.

New York.—It all came about—this police court fairy tale—because little Miss Thirteen, who is wide-eyed Anna Gold, was visiting "down the block" on the evening of Saturday, Aug. 28. Anna was sitting with her friend, Mrs. Marie St. Jacques, on the first floor of the two-family house at 364 Fifty-seventh street, Brooklyn, when a plaintive, frightened voice came to them:

"Mrs. St. Jacques, oh, Mrs. St. Jacques; have you anything to eat." The words melted into a choking sob. Little Miss Thirteen leaped to her feet and rushed upstairs. In a dark bedroom opening on the hall she saw a dark shape huddled against the wall. She got some matches, lighted one and saw a thin, pale little lad, his slender arm, bound by a rope and his frail body encircled several times by another rope which was attached to a spike driven into the wall.

Tied Up for Days.

"What's the matter, little boy?" tremulously asked Miss Thirteen. "I've been tied up since Thursday morning," weakly answered Little Master Ten, who is Joseph Plock. "My father and stepmother tied me up to punish me. They have given me only a little bread and water. They have gone out for a little while and I am starving."

"Don't worry, little boy," reassured Little Miss Thirteen, her eyes gushing tears of sympathy. "I will get you something."

Soon she returned with some bread and milk. She helped free Little Master Ten's arms, fed him and was leaving to get some more food when the sound of approaching steps and a shiver of terror in the boy warned her the "bad parents" were returning.

So Little Miss Thirteen had to be content with repeating her story to Mrs. St. Jacques and other neighbors, who warned the Children's society.

So it came about that Little Master Ten was released after he had been fastened to the wall for four days and three nights and the parents were arrested. Then the two little figures in the bread-and-milk fairy told their stories to Magistrate Louis Reynolds, in Fifth avenue court, and Plock and his wife were held in $500 bail each. Little Master Ten was pale in contrast to the roddy strength of his father and the buxom robustness of his stepmother, fingered his cap nervously as he told of his agonizing experience. He said his father punished him frequently after his second marriage.

He was trussed to the wall because he took some prunes from the ice box. The first night he remained standing against the wall and all the next day.

Woman Assails Neighbor.

Plock and his wife asserted the lad was incurable. The latter said she could have "conquered" him if the neighbors hadn't "batted in." At which a bevy of neighbors in the courtroom "booed" audibly.

Little Joseph shrank away from his parents in the courtroom. He clung to Agent Charles Harstedt of the Children's society, who took him into an anteroom. Here he was visited by Mrs. Ellen O'Grady, deputy police commissioner, who put her arms around him and said:

"Don't worry, little man. We are going to find a good home for you." For the first time Little Master Ten's tense look relaxed and he smiled.

HOW UNDER-SEA MINES HELP TO RECLAIM LAND FROM OCEAN'S GRIP.

—When coal mining was first undertaken as a commercial proposition the coal was mined from the surface outcrops. Later came the shaft-mine with its elevators and cars. In the extremities to secure cheap coal for isolated districts, and to get any at all where mines are early worked out, the coal veins are followed out under the land, and in one instance, under the sea. The under-the-sea mines are quite numerous in England, but as yet only one such mine has been reported on the North American continent.

It was at Fort Rupert that the first discovery of coal was made on the Pacific coast, but the product was exceedingly poor in quality. Shortly later coal was located at Nanaimo, on Vancouver island. During the early days of mining in this district, the coal was mined from the beach only, but as the vein ran out under the bed of the ocean, it was decided to follow it. A shaft, now known as "No. 1 shaft," was sunk near the shore line to a depth of about 700 feet.

Work was started on the "under-sea" mine in 1881, but the preliminary work was not completed until two years later, so that it was in 1885 that the mine became a shipper of coal. From the latter date until the present this mine has been in continuous operation, with the exception of two short periods. The first suspension was caused by a mine explosion in which nearly 100 lives were lost. The second arose from labor troubles which terminated in a general strike. For more than 25 years the output of this single mine has been more than 400,000 tons a year. The mine has shipped more than 8,000,000 tons of coal. In addition, acres upon acres of sea have been reclaimed, and made into valuable building plots for industry and homes by dumping the waste rock from the mine along the ocean front.
