HIGH SCHOOL

On Tuesday evening the high school building was well filled with "pie hungry" folks including both students and parents. After an interesting half hour's program, all present were presented with cards and the men were asked to fill out a "pie program" to include at least four ladies of their choice. The couples then wended their way to a "Blind Pig" where in exchange for a dime slipped thru a "hole in the wall", there emerged a couple of pieces of pie concealed between two paper plates. After plenty of time was given for eating and conversation the second round was called, followed in like manner by others.

In a voting contest for the most hungry looking man a close race was run between D. B. Stump and W. J. Mulkey who finished in the order named. 100 votes cost 5 cents.

Receipts totalled $25.35, which will be used to help reduce the high school indebtedness carried over from last year.

Some Timely Fall Offerings

Our Store is brim full of bargains: merchandise priced right because bought right and retailed with the smallest margin of overhead expense.

Probably many of our customers do not fully realize our unusual advantage: that of large bulk buying, with small selling expense.

Let these prices help to convince you.

Jumper dresses of all wool fine jersey cloth $10.

Your Grocery Money Goes Farthest Here

Everybody can see how we can underbuy the single store buyer. If we give you the benefit of this difference will it not show in the price of your groceries each week? We do give you this benefit, and that's why at our reduced prices, we sell you a better line of groceries and provisions than you can buy elsewhere for the same money. And this is one reason why grocery money goes farthest here.

Salem Woolen Mill Store News

In furtherance of our letter of last week.

The great purport and intent of the management of the store is and has been the entire year to try and get our goods to the consumer at as near pre-war prices as it is possible. Many items we have been able to reach that by selling at a very small margin.

It would be a very simple matter to sell most merchandise at pre-war prices, provided we wanted to put in cheap goods and decrease the standard and quality of our lines, but patrons may be fully assured that the quality of our goods will be kept up to the standard of the past 31 years and every market will be ransacked to enable us to find good merchandise.

In his trip east this summer Mr. Bishop made a number of new alliances that will enable the store to buy good merchandise at as low rates and favorable terms as any one, and these conditions will be passed on to each customer in making his purchases.

Port Tobacco Passes.

Gone is the ancient town of Port Tobacco—Portobacco of the eighteenth century—the "metropolis" of Charles in the days of auld lang syne. The pioneers who sailed up the Potomac founded it on an estuary of the noble river, and its fame as a shipping point for the colonists once extended across the Atlantic. Three or four decades ago the last "court-house fight" in Maryland centered around Port Tobacco. Its water transportation dwindled, and the building of the Pope's Creek railroad line from Bowie to the Potomac gave the Charles countians a new outlook. Many of them picked La Plata station for a county seat, owing to its central location and daily trains. The old courthouse at Port Tobacco was burned down and the voters declared for the building of a new one at La Plata.—Baltimore News.

To Save Vessels From Sinking.

Interest has been aroused by an apparatus that has lately been developed to save ocean vessels from sinking after being torpedoed or damaged by collision. The contrivance, which is shown in Popular Mechanics Magazine, comprises a laminated steel disk, to the center of which is attached a series of rubberized canvas cone shaped buckets. In use, the end cone on the chain would be lowered into the water in the vicinity of the hole in a ship's hull. Upon being caught by the rushing water, it would be pulled through the opening. The whole string of buckets would then be lowered along with the disk so that the latter would be pulled in place over the break. The cones, being of flexible material, would be able to pass through an aperture, regardless of its shape. The disk, once in place, would be held by the pressure of the water against the hull.
