

Let Your Child Ring The Old Liberty Bell

Let your boy or girl "ring" the old Liberty Bell with his or her savings. Teach the habit of THRIFT in a patriotic way at the time when most habits are formed—in Youth.

The Liberty Bell Bank does this. It instantly appeals to every child. Your boy or girl wants one—should have one—especially when there is no expense in connection with getting a Bell Bank. Merely come in and say: "I wish to open a Liberty Bell Savings Account." $1.00 will do it. Then we will give you a Bell Bank.

We are SPECIALISTS

OUR business right now is curing the time-killing ills that delay your hay harvest. And our "medicine" is found in the McCormick-Deering line of hay tools. Better mowers were never made than the McCormick and Deering mowers we have here on our floor waiting for you. When one of these machines goes into the field, the hay is sure to be cut in a hurry—without loss of time due to breakdowns. Farmers have been depending on them for years to cut over all kinds of ground, on sidehills, over ditches, hummocks and other irregularities.

It is worth a lot to be able to start the haying season with implements that promise fast, sure work. If you are the least bit uncertain as to the dependability of your mower, you had better drop in and send one of these machines home. It doesn't pay to take a chance when the hay harvest and the crops that need attention afterward are in the balance. We will be glad to explain these mowers (or any of the other machines in the McCormick-Deering line) to you any time you come in.

Hood River is sending out the preliminary schedules for the state editorial meet to be held in that city over the week end beginning July 13. A big feature of this meeting will be the participation by the visiting editors in the third annual Mount Hood Climb of the Hood River Post, American Legion which is expected to attract 750 visitors. Last year the Legion guides escorted 111 visitors to the Mountain top and this year they expect to set a record in mountain climbing in the Northwest.

A feature of Friday the first day of the editorial meet will be a tour of inspection of the cold storage plants of the Apple Growers Association.

In the evening the Hood River Chamber of Commerce will banquet the editors at the Columbia Gorge Hotel. Among the speakers will be J. Adam Bede, former Minnesota congressman, N. J. Sinnott, representative from Eastern Oregon; Judge Fred W. Wilson, president of the Oregon Bar Association and Captain Geo. R. Wilbur, commander of the department of Oregon, American Legion.

Saturday morning the editorial party will take an early start to reach the mile high Legion camp for lunch. The journey by automobile will carry the visitors over the Hood River Valley trunk of the Mount Hood Loop highway, through the famous fruit orchards into the Oregon National Forest.

For the afternoon the convention will be provided with a natural amphitheater in a mountain ravine, canopied with white firs and hemlocks and here they will conclude the formal business of their session.

Saturday night will be devoted to a campfire program where members of the Legion party and editors will vie in song and story.

Parties will leave the base camp for an ascent of the mountain at daybreak on Sunday and Monday mornings. Those who prefer less strenuous sight-seeing excursions will be conducted on trips to the ice cascades of the glaciers and over the expanses of blossoming meadows in the vicinity of the camp.

The members of the Editorial Association will be honor guests of the Legion this year. Through courtesy of the Legion Post and the citizens of Hood River, the excursion into the scenic mountain region will be afforded the newspaper folk without a cent of expense on their part. Through the cooperation of Adjutant General George A. White, blankets of the Hood River National Guard Company will be made available for the editorial party, thus relieving them of the bother of transporting such equipment.

The Hood River Legion Post initiated the Mount Hood Climb in 1921. The plan materialized when a party of ex-service men was considering a summer vacation reunion of members of old Company 12, Oregon Coast Artillery, mobilized from Hood River in 1917 for Great War service. The mountain party, open to public participation, was suggested. Vision of Legion members saw how the activities of the Post could be turned toward bringing about a popularization of Mount Hood by affording an annual outing at a minimum of expense through Legion organization. The ordinary excursion into the mountain region, with its costly packing and guide service, places the recreation beyond the average vacationist. The annual Legion parties, however, make it possible for anyone to visit the mountain and make an ascent to the top for only a nominal charge. The Legion Post does not aspire toward making the recreational venture one of profit.

The two years' work of the Hood River Legion Post has already done more toward making Oregonians actually acquainted with Mount Hood than any other organization of the state, with the exception of the Mazamas, and the well attended party of this year is expected to double the exploitation results of any past year. It is the aim of the Hood River Legion Post gradually to enlarge the scope of their annual summer party until it gains national note. Already through the channels of the national Legion organization and the medium of various Legion publications, the Climb has gained an impetus that would have been impossible for any organization of strictly local character to accomplish. Hood River legionnaires, contemplating their undertaking, see in the not distant future a permanent lodge on the side of Mount Hood, where annually during the mid-summer season they will stage sports of snow fields during the heated season.

Affording this opportunity of unique recreation, typical of the Northwest, the Legion Post is confident of the day when the annual Mount Hood Climb will draw participants from the entire nation.

No member of a former Legion Climb has ever failed to grasp the full significance of the aspiration of the Hood River Legion Post, and the ex-service men, who really inspired the Hood River editorial convention this year, are jubilant over their opportunity to carry the newspaper folk into the region of inspiring charm, Oregon's mountain wonderland, where the impress of a day's outing will last for a lifetime.
