Once more we hang up a new calendar. An old year dies and a new year is born. It is invoice time.

It is time to measure profit and loss, failure and success. All check up accounts. What has been gained or lost in the material things of the world. Have we enriched or impoverished our spiritual resources? Whatever we have done with the closing year is done. None of us can rewrite the story. But a new chance is given to all to make the story of the new year what they will.

Begin the new year by warming up to an idea or an ideal. Light the wick of enthusiasm.

Let our resolves be DO rather than don't.

With the most cordial of wishes for 1924

How Many Goats

To what extent can and should goat production be increased in Oregon? The answer to that question will be considered at the economic conference to be held at the state college, January 23 to 25.

Western Oregon is recognized as the source of the highest quality Angora goats in the United States. There are 830,000 acres now in stump lands in Oregon and this area is being increased at the rate of about 100,000 acres each year.

Much of this land can be advantageously utilized for goat grazing.
