

"Oil"

Teapot Dome oil leases do not touch your affairs nearly so personally as the new lease of life that oil, rightly applied, will give to your watch.

Annual lubrication will make wear and tear on a man's watch hardly appreciable in an entire lifetime. Lack of it will ruin any watch.

We maintain a service station for watches, where the oiling, cleaning, repairing, or other technical attention your watch needs can be secured promptly, satisfactorily and economically.

Bringing your watch here for monthly regulation and inspection is a good habit for you to form. We make no charge for this service.

Editorial

America Is Doomed and That's That

When great tragedies impend, ethics—even newspaper ethics—must be swept aside. The editorial columns of this publication always have been confined to the expression of opinion, leaving to our news columns the recital of events that have occurred and the announcement of events to come. A continuation of this accepted policy is now rendered impossible, for we must record without delay the impending disintegration of the land we love before we are too late. The United States is doomed, and when the grand crash comes, perhaps some time next week, there won't be anybody to write the story. There won't be any newspapers to record the fact, and if there were, of course, there will not be any people to read about it. For once, therefore, we must beat our news editor to his own game.

The nation has gone. Disaster is at the door. The gaunt skeleton of ruin is abroad in the land. This is not an opinion, not an expression of our fearfulness; it is the definite announcement of the distinguished Hebraic authority who settles all questions—Mr. Israel Zangwill. What more can be said? When Mr. Zangwill opens his lips, let no dog bark.

Worst of all, Mr. Zangwill has left us to our fate, gone home, thanking God he has departed without having had to see our prominent men. Oh, woe is us, for we are in the depths! Mr. Zangwill tells us we have no kick, not even in our bootleg cocktail, that our immigration and reparations policies are all wrong, that our hotels have too many towels in the bedrooms, that we are being attacked, undermined and sapped by a score of ignorant prejudices which will surely ruin us if suitable steps are not taken. Our typewriter shivers under our touch as we record this humiliating arraignment. Our nerves were shattered when we read that the coffin trust of his time had put one over on old King Tut by slipping him into a cracked sarcophagus, but this latest exposure of our great incompetence just puts us entirely out of commission. We feel as the puppy dog barking against thunder when we realize the humiliating fact that after all our work we are headed for obliteration.

There is only one ray of hope. Mr. Zangwill announces in passing that at one time he had considered becoming a citizen of the United States. He found, of course, that he could not become our President. Whether this influenced his decision not to save us, no man can tell, but it might be well for us to change the law while there is yet time and roll up a mighty petition insisting that Mr. Zangwill head the nation and lead us into the promised land. We must forget partisanship. Coolidge, McAdoo, Watson, Underwood, Reed, Walsh—yes, even William Jennings Bryan—must walk the plank. Self-preservation demands it. Zangwill, the master mind, must rule—and that's that.

Not even yet has a sensible income tax schedule been arranged. What the people want is a tax arrangement that will make the other fellow pay double and leave us free to enjoy ourselves without burden.

The new woman member of the British House of Commons startles the parliamentarians. "Let us see," she says, "if we cannot arrange to have every child in England eat the same food as the children of our Princess." Vaulting ambition! Where will it end?

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions.
