Normal Situation From Oregonian Writer's View

Although both Ashland, Jackson county, and Island City, Union county will have bills in the legislature requesting the establishment of normal schools, sentiment among the legislators in Salem Saturday tended to favor the enlarging of the present normal school at Monmouth to avoid duplication of overhead expense.

Although the bills have not yet been prepared for consideration of the legislature, it is likely that the Monmouth Normal School will request the appropriation of $145,000 for the establishment of a teachers' training school in Independence, approximately $75,000 for the construction of new class rooms at the school and $50,000 for additional maintenance. This in addition to $276,000 approved for the Monmouth normal school by the state budget commission.

Establishment of a normal school at Ashland will be urged by the delegation from Jackson county. It will be contended, according to reports, that the old Normal school buildings there are still intact and could be renovated, repaired and made available for school purposes at an expense not exceeding $100,000. Persons who recently inspected these buildings, however, have disagreed with the Jackson county delegation, and expressed the opinion that it would be economy to wreck the present structures and use the land for the establishment of a new plant.

Should the latter plan be adopted it would be necessary for the legislature to appropriate for not less than $200,000 for new buildings with a liberal allowance for maintenance.

Island City wants a normal and will probably have a bill before the house within the next three or four days. This plant would cost approximately the same as the proposed Ashland normal plant.—Oregonian.

Willamette Chorus Singers Give Sacred Concert Here

A chorus of singers from the student body of Willamette university came to Monmouth Sunday evening and gave a sacred concert in the Normal chapel before an audience of nearly a thousand people. All of the churches of the city gave up their Sunday evening services to allow their congregations to attend. The concert was voluntary and not even a collection was taken. That it was appreciated was shown repeatedly by the spontaneous applause that followed the different numbers. The violin numbers by Mr. F. M. Chapman met with especial favor as did the chorus directed by Prof. E. W. Hobson and the different vocal numbers.

Willis M. Dugger, aged 53 years, a resident of Polk county since 1895, died at his home one-half mile east of Monmouth, Monday evening, January 19, following a lingering illness of several months duration.

He was married to Lizzie H. Murphy at Monmouth, January 18, 1898 and to this union were born the following children: Mrs. Elvera Beard, Washougal, Wash., Mrs. Rita Jones and Mrs. Thelma Jones of Independence, Cecil, Otto, Roscoe and Prenton of Monmouth, all of whom with his widow, survive him.

Having been born at Nashville, Tennessee, December 9, 1871, Mr. Dugger spent his early life in that state, until coming to Oregon and settling in Polk county, where he has since resided.

spicuous talents and the following descriptive of Alaska in summer and winter, are by him.

FAIRYLAND (H. R. Miller)

I wandered on a frosty day,
Upon a hill, not far away,
Where silver birches, spruce and vines
Were traced in silvery designs,
So frail, so delicate and rare,
That, just one breath of summer air
Would cause them quickly to expire,
Like snowflakes falling into fire.
Dead spruce tips stood, like glistening spars,
Bedecked in gems as bright as stars,
That winked and twinkled in the light
Like diamond facets, bluish white.
Alone the trapper's cabin stood,
A crystal palace in the wood,
Each log, the window panes and eaves,
Embossed in glistening silver leaves
And flowers, without a counterpart,
That dared Aladdin's magic art.
As the each elfin heart to thrill,
A tiny stream ran down the hill,
The music from whose magic lip
Breathed naught but sweet companionship;
Here, happy wood folk might have played,
Or princes passed in dress parade
Before their sovereign, proud to own
A jeweled bird house for a throne.
