LADIES ATTEND CLUB DINNER

Women Folk Special Guests At Commercial Club's January Meeting

Ladies' night is always a popular meeting with the Commercial club and this year as for several years past it was necessary to rent the dining room of the Odd Fellows hall to serve all. The dinner was served by the hotel management and as usual was of good quality and well served.

At the conclusion of the meal a short space of time was devoted to business of the club. The new president of the club, Fred Hill, announced some committees and stated the desire of the club to be aggressively for the development of the city and the agricultural area surrounding us during the coming year.

As program chairman, Ira C. Powell stated that for the evening serious matters were to be laid aside and entertainment was to be the order of the program. Under the direction of Mrs. Osborn of the Oregon Normal a chorus of young ladies sang a number of selections which elicited hearty applause.

Miss Woodruff, head of the music department of the Normal, directed a quartet of young men whose well blended voices gave the audience much delight.

Three young women from Mrs. Riehl's public speaking department presented a French farce in which a couple tried to train their servant to receive an important caller. There were some humorous developments in the process and enough ridiculous situations to keep the crowd in a titter of merriment.

J. B. V. Butler, in a few words, elaborated on the idea of community team work and the remarkable results that come at times from people who are spurred on by the confidence of their fellows.

President Landers closed the evening by congratulating the citizens of Monmouth on achievements made since he took up residence among us, numbering one after another down to the charter election held that same day. He also used several illustrations to show how the interests of all are in a common purpose, how people all over the world contribute to our needs and the intimate relationship such contributions sometimes assume.

SOCIAL HOUR CLUB

The Social Hour club held a very pleasant meeting with Miss Paradine Doughty on Wednesday with Miss Cassie Stump as co-hostess. There was a good attendance in spite of the fact that a pretty but rather damp snow storm was in progress during the afternoon. There was an interesting program after which the hostesses served dainty refreshments which all enjoyed. The next meeting will be on February 2 at Mrs. Cole's, with Mrs. Swenson as assisting hostess. Members will respond to roll call with short stories or sayings of Abraham Lincoln.

The pool hall which has been under the management of Jim Baker for the past year is going to change hands soon. S. R. Gibson will be the new owner.

Home Her Career

It is not necessary to go outside the home for a career, says Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of Vice Pres. of U. S., "The Second Lady of the Land," cares little for outside interests or sports, she is an ardent lover of her home and centers her life upon it.

On Guard

Revolution grips the Republic of Nicaragua. During this emergency U. S. Warships are stationed in the harbor with orders to protect American lives and property. Admiral Julian Latimer is in command.

Normal Notes

"The Kid Brother" Harold Lloyd's latest comedy, now playing in Portland, is to be the attraction at the Normal Saturday night. Two shows, at 6:30 and 8:15.

Peter Spencer of the department of education was in Newberg Wednesday night where he addressed a meeting of the county teachers of Yamhill, giving the result of a diagnostic test recently given by him in arithmetic.

Miss Taylor, Miss Emmond and Miss Wilson were in Dallas Wednesday making arrangements for holding a dental clinic in the Rickreall school January 28. Dr. Foster and Dr. Hayter of Dallas will conduct the clinic.

The Misses Henkle, LeVelle Wood, McClew and Mrs. Hjalmar Gentle gave a reception to members of the faculty at Miss Wood's Sunday afternoon. Hours 4 to 6. The refreshments and decorations were especially fine. The rooms were in red, with red carnations reflecting the glow from red tapers, giving the interior of the home a beautiful appearance.

The Normal school basketball team defeated a team from a Greek fraternity in Corvallis in a game played Wednesday evening by a decisive score. Teachers 40, Greeks 11.

Mrs. Inez Miller attended a three days institute for Grange lecturers held on the O. A. C. campus last week. One of her addresses: "How to Interest Young People" attracted considerable favorable comment and she has been asked to repeat it in a number of different places.

Trading Horses

The Herald office was more or less upset the first three days of this week by work incidental to the swapping of presses. The Brower drum press was taken out and a Huber two-revolution press put in its place. The large California jobber on which, under D. E. Stitt, the Herald was formerly printed, was also replaced by a smaller Chandler & Price jobber. The deal was made with the C. B. Haywood company of Portland who had one man here two days and two men one day erecting the new and taking down the old. Pollan Brothers transferred the machinery between Portland and Monmouth. While neither of the recently acquired presses are new but are what is known as "re-built" both are high grade machines and we of the Herald office are quite proud of their possession. The Huber press, especially, is something of a novelty in a country office and readers of the Herald are invited to call and see it.

POMONA GRANGE

The Pomona Grange will meet in McCoy on Saturday beginning at ten o'clock. A splendid program has been arranged. Visiting granges are to furnish the dessert for the dinner. The session will be a day session only with the degree work immediately after the program.

Clarence Allen from Ed Rogers' home town of Alma, Michigan, is a visitor with Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and other friends in Monmouth.

MANY IDEAS FOR NEW LAWS

Subjects Being Considered For Legislation By State Solons Now in Salem

Salem, Jan. 20.—Representative Theodore P. Cramer Jr., of Grant's Pass has joined with Representative J. O. Bailey of Portland in a proposal for conference between Pacific coast states on uniform income tax laws.

There has been presented by these men, representing quite general opinion in both houses, a joint memorial asking for a committee from each house to formulate a plan whereby representatives from the legislatures of California and Washington may meet with a delegation from Oregon to confer on measures that will make possible basic and elemental forms of levying income taxes in these states so that it shall not work to disadvantage of any of them.

The memorial has been referred to the committee on taxation and revenue which now has the Hazlet income tax bill for Oregon under consideration.

Mr. Cramer, who is a banker at Grant's Pass, says this will remove the handicap under which Oregon has been placed, by rendering inadequate revenues available and works no hardships on any interests.

Livestock Certificates for Drivers
Representative Billingsley of Ontario introduced House Bill 40, providing that certificates of ownership shall be secured on all livestock driven out of any country as well as on any shipments made. Any owner or custodian of livestock failing to notify the inspector shall be considered guilty of violation of law. The bill carries a fine of $250 as a limit.

Auto Licenses at Christmas
Herbert J. Elliott, Polk county, has introduced a bill in the senate advancing one month the date for securing automobile licenses. By its terms licenses would expire November 30, instead of December 31, yearly. This would bring the family license tag within the holiday gift season, and a nifty Christmas package for father would be a new set of plates for the car. The bill also provides for half and quarterly yearly fees for license.

Eddy Educational Report
Teachers of Oregon have been much concerned in the activities of Senator B. L. Eddy of Douglas on educational reforms. He contends that the three "r's" do not have enough attention and that high schools should remedy the lack shown in grammar and elementary grades. This of course does not fully express Mr. Eddy's proposals but it is a highlight on his program. Report of his committee and textbook recommendations have been referred to the senate committee on education and will be issued in printed form.

New State Office Building at Capitol
Salem, Jan. 19.—Borrowing money from the industrial accident fund, a $600,000 office building for administrative purposes is scheduled in H. B. 58, introduced by the Marion county delegation. Crowded conditions at Salem, with the auto license and traffic department and numerous other activities housed outside the capitol, have induced this move. State Treasurer Kay estimated the cost of a five story building at $500,000, but the structure is desired to be of six floors under the measure filed. Location would be on the northeast corner of the capitol mall, north of the supreme court building. The cost of the supreme court building was approximately $400,000. To duplicate it under present conditions would involve nearly double that amount it is stated. Therefore the new building will of necessity be built on a less elaborate scale, both as to material and finish. It will be more on the plan of office building construction, and may be designed in less ornate forms of architecture.

FAVOR PROJECT TWENTY TO ONE

Charter Amendment Finds Very Little Opposition In Tuesday's Election

As the result of the special election held Tuesday the council will be able to meet the board of regents with additional land should the legislature authorize the needed Normal buildings at the present session. The election failed to develop any opposition, carrying by a twenty to one vote: 186 for and 9 against. In the city election last November 349 votes were cast which shows the charter election brought out a fair amount of interest.

Thus far the council has an option on only one tract, that belonging to Orville Butler and across the street from the campus. This is regarded as the logical site for the new structure and is understood to be the choice of Mr. Bennes, the school building architect.

Many at Meeting

There was a record attendance at the householders' meeting held in the Dormitory Tuesday afternoon. There were about seventy five or eighty women present and nearly every house in Monmouth which keeps students was represented. Many questions of interest to all were brought up and discussed and it was decided that everything this year had been going in a very pleasant and satisfactory manner. The ladies of the Dormitory served ice cream and cake to their guests and all felt they had had a profitable and enjoyable afternoon.

The Dorcas Society gave a very enjoyable tea on Tuesday afternoon in the church. The parlors were very prettily decorated and a number of guests were entertained during the afternoon.

house resolution was introduced Tuesday by Burdick and Loneragan. It names Governor Patterson and ex-governors Pierce and West, with four house members to be named by the speaker, to carry out the survey of rates, service practices and valuations of the company. The name of ex-governor Pierce was stricken from the bill Wednesday. Powers adequate for complete investigation, with court action, employment of attorneys and every means for determining the facts with relation to all its acts and operations.

ELEANOR MARIE GUILD

Mrs. Eleanor Marie Guild, a well known resident of Independence, died at her home in that city this morning. Her maiden name was Chamberlin and she was born in Pennsylvania, August 10, 1856. She was married to Gilbert Guild in 1886 and moved to the west coast in 1896, locating at Aberdeen, Washington.

The family moved to Southern Oregon and in 1909 came to Polk county, settling on a farm in the Highland district. Nine years ago she moved to Independence.

Mrs. Guild is survived by the following children: Mrs. Lillian Stuller, Riddell, Oregon; Joel L. Guild, Independence; Valen L. Guild, Portland.

Funeral services will be held in the Keeney chapel, Friday, January 21 at 2 o'clock. Dr. Dunsmore will officiate and burial will be in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

A Quilting Bee

Mrs. Heffley had an old time quilting bee Wednesday and invited in a few old friends to help her and they spent a very pleasant afternoon. Present were Mrs. Alderson, Mrs. Mack, Mrs. Peter Kurre, Mrs. Sadie Pratt of Los Angeles, Mrs. Dornsife, Mrs. Herren, Mrs. Theodore Heffley and Mrs. Fred Smith. The moist snowfall of the day gave a setting of reality to the time when quilts are most thoroughly appreciated and brought back many memories. The snow also inspired Mr. Heffley to engage in a snowball fight with Mrs. Mack. Who was victor the record does not say, but we imagine with so many allies to render assistance in case of need, mere man was compelled to seek refuge in the basement or the barn.
