A TUBERCULOSIS ASYLUM

The Capital Journal says: "This paper declines to help impose upon the taxpayers a tuberculosis asylum, colony, congress, conference or any form of agitation or graft to advertise that we are a nation of one-lungers."

It is extremely unfortunate that most cases of tuberculosis develop in the homes of the poor or middle classes. It is unfortunate that this disease should be visited upon anyone, but we say more unfortunate that it should attack families who are financially unable to provide the proper treatment to aid in recovery. The provision of an asylum for the treatment of this disease is the best possible advertisement for a country, for "in time of peace is the time to prepare for war." Does a great army imply that our country is one of warfare? What manner of man is he whose heart would not grow sore at the neglect of a sufferer from tuberculosis, all because the funds for procuring remedial treatment are not in sight? Would you withhold a few paltry dollars for the sake of what people might think of our country in the extremity of hopeless and forsaken sufferers? It cannot be classed in the columns with charity, for it is our duty, one thing more than another, to care for the suffering about us, another to provide against and prevent the spread of a disease which may invade our own home. The establishment of such an institution is one of the urgent demands on society at this time.

The J. L. Stockton store of Salem now comes forward and buys 100 subscriptions to the Independence Enterprise to be given away absolutely free to patrons of their store. See their ad on another page for particulars. In speaking of the matter the ad writer of the big store says: "We are proud of this splendid country weekly. It will do more for the development of Polk county than any other influence." The Chicago Store, one of Salem's big institutions, says, "The Enterprise is the finest country weekly that ever came to our store."

Mrs. Augusta Powell, who had been ill for about a year, passed from darkness to light on the evening of the 12th of October, 1908, at a Salem hospital, whither she had been taken a few days before, by her father and husband, still hopeful to obtain medical aid, but no earthly help could be given as her spirit was already pluming for its flight. She had suffered as none but patient Gussie knew. During life, she had cherished many intense friendships. As a child, a school girl, a maiden and a wife, none knew her but to love her. Her life was so blameless her name was never spoken in envy or anger. Gussie, dear, although "Thy leaf has perished in its green, thy memory is enshrined in our hearts, a sweet incense."

THE "LANE COUNTY PLAN."

Learn About It for it is of Interest at Coming Election.

The "Lane county plan" for country high school organization, which was explained in the September number of the University of Oregon Bulletin, has aroused a great deal of interest toward the organization of country high schools in all parts of Oregon. Requests for Bulletins and information are being received by the University Registrar in large numbers. The "plan" is so simple and works so admirably in actual practice that there is little doubt that the number of high schools in Oregon will be more than doubled within a comparatively short time. It makes possible better high schools in the larger towns and the establishment of others in country districts where none have existed, obviating the necessity of sending children away from home to school if their education is to continue above the eighth grade. One of its many great advantages is the large bodies of valuable land, timber and other, owned by non-residents and corporations, which have always escaped taxation for school purposes, will be made to pay their share. Linn and Marion counties are already taking up the plan, where it is being strongly agitated and will be voted on at the November election, and the matter is being strongly talked of in a half dozen other counties.

What Papers Do You Read?

H. B. Geer tells of a farmer who once said: "I don't believe in your book learning, study and all that; I'd rather learn by experience." He did. That man a couple of years later lost out as a farmer and moved to town, where he made a very poor living working by the day and doubtless working for men who studied and read and thought about their business, and applied in it, as far as practicable, that which they had learned from books, periodicals and the experience of others given therein. It is the men who read; the men who study; the thoughtful men who support the farm journals. They are the men who read books and papers on agriculture, fruit growing, poultry culture and bee-keeping. They are the men who stand in the front rank; the leaders in their respective communities. These men have found that it pays to read and study on any subject in which they are interested and apply their knowledge in their everyday work.

is published for this class of farmers and stock raisers. Every week it contains articles by men who KNOW. Practical experience is what counts and you get it from others through the Pacific Homestead, published at Salem, Oregon, each Thursday. Subscription price $1 per year, sample copy free.
