

CANADA WILL HAVE DISPLAY

One of the revelations of the past month in the development of the Alaska Yukon Pacific Exposition has been the sudden appearance of two new buildings, one of them among the largest on the grounds, near the Music Pavilion on the left side of the Rainer Vista at the foot of the Court of Honor. The two structures seem to arise as if by magic, and a few days after they were first observed, the entire framework was in place and scores of workmen were busy with exterior and interior finishing. The workers on the exposition grounds, who had supposed that all of the large buildings were already constructed, hastened to inquire about the new buildings, and learned that they are the Canadian Government building, and the Grand Trunk Railway building.

Canada has erected on the A. Y. P. Grounds a handsome building that will contain as large an exhibit as some of the main exhibit palaces, and there are already arrived for the display, a shipment of several carloads containing the exhibits of Canada at the Franco-British Exhibition at London last summer. This shipment will form the nucleus of the Canadian display, but the Canadian Commissioner has gathered from throughout the Dominion, agricultural, mineral, timber and fishery resources of the country.

Canada will make a strong feature of the facilities of her lands for dairy purposes, and will be a strong contender in the live stock show, which will be held at the Exposition in September, and will be the largest live stock exhibition ever gathered in the west. Canadian breeders of high grade stock have already made numerous entries for this event, and will make a strong showing against the entries from this side of the line.

The Canada Building will be completed by the end of April, leaving a full month for the installment of exhibits. The building occupies one of the choicest sites on the fair grounds, especially in regard to the view it commands. From the balcony of the building a sweeping view of the Exposition may be obtained, while Lake Washington lies at the foot of a slope to the eastward, and the Cascades loom up beyond. Mt. Rainier is seen to the southeast, and Lake Union to the southwest, with a distant glimpse of Olympia beyond Seattle's hills. The formal gardens, a feature of the landscape work on the Exposition grounds lie at the foot of Cascade Court, and extend past the Canadian building. Nearby is the music pavilion, where the finest bands in America will play during the summer.

The Grand Trunk building, next the Canadian structure, is a smaller affair but very attractive in design, and will exploit the wonderful region which this railroad is opening through the Dominion.

Passing of Pioneer Editor.

James M. Johns died at his home in Arlington the first of the week from an attack of pneumonia. Mr. Johns was well known in all parts of Oregon, having lived for years in Marion county, at one time conducting a mercantile establishment at Silverton. He was for many years editor of the Arlington Record and at the time of his death was practicing law at Arlington. He was father of C. A. Johns, mayor of Baker City, and Cato Johns, a merchant of Sumpter, Oregon.

COAST ROAD TO BE COMPLETED

Further delay in the completion of the Pacific Coast Railway & Navigation Co's line is ended and the extension of that line into the Bay City country is made a certainty in the appropriation of $2,000,000 by Harri-man interests, according to E. E. Lytle, who has charge of the construction of the road. Since the spring season is open better weather is going to see the next six months busy ones in construction work on this line. Grading gangs are being increased and it is hoped that the road will be completed by the end of the present year. As was expected, large appropriations for the work during the summer have been allowed by the Harri-man general office in Chicago. This large appropriation has been set aside for the completion of the road.

The Independence Free Library Association will meet in the Commercial Club rooms Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Everybody invited.

EVERGREEN STATE

Interesting Items Gathered From All Parts of the State.

Anchor Foes to Contest.

Seattle—Chief Taholah, of the Quinaults, has issued a challenge to his ancient tribal enemy, the King George Indians, of Vancouver Island, to meet his men in contests with the whale lance and in driving the long boat at the A.-Y.-P. Exposition.

One of the contests which promises to be most spectacular, will be the whale chase. A log will be set adrift in Lake Washington and the ocean canoes will be manned each by eight men. They will be swiftly driven by paddles until within striking distance of the dummy whale, when the harpooners will launch their lances.

Chief Taholah is 80 years old. He signed the peace treaty with Governor Isaac A. Stevens in 1855.

Board to Inspect Depots.

Olympia—The railroad commission has announced that it will start Monday, April 19, on its previously announced trip over the state to examine into the station facilities, train service and other matters affecting the accommodations rendered to the public by the railroads. The commission will cover the Grays Harbor branch of the Northern Pacific, next the line to Willapa Harbor, and then points on the main line to Vancouver, afterward going north over the Northern Pacific to the Canadian boundary, taking in all the branch lines on that road, as well as the Port Townsend Southern, and in all probability returning south over the Great Northern to Seattle. The commission will then decide upon the itinerary through Eastern Washington.

Nelson's Widow Returns to Tacoma.

Tacoma—Wearied to a state of exhaustion from her long trip and with no visible signs of emotion on her sad home-coming to view the corpse of the husband who had lost his life through efforts to find her, Mrs. Anna M. Nelson, wife of the late Andrew P. Nelson, arrived in Tacoma Saturday afternoon.

"We could not agree. Our family life was not pleasant and I did not care to get a divorce, so I just ran away and hid," she said. "I am so glad he did not commit suicide, but perhaps he is better off since he died naturally. Of course, I grieve for him, but I am necessarily hardened."

Lost Boy May Be Found.

Tacoma—A new clew to the whereabouts of little Cecil Brittain, who was kidnaped two years ago in Walla Walla, has been obtained by a Tacoma man, who has notified the Brittain family of the fact. The Tacoma man, however, desires his name withheld for the present. The boy is said to be held in Idaho and is in the care of an old woman who presumably was not connected with the kidnaping.

Cecil Brittain was 4 years old when he was mysteriously stolen. The place where the boy is now reported to be is only 20 miles from Walla Walla, but no railroad goes to the place.

Conductor Shot by Insane Italian.

Tacoma—Conductor W. J. Hilby, of a Northern Pacific passenger train, was shot twice by an insane Italian just as his train was pulling out of Bristol Sunday morning.

The Italian walked through the coaches flourishing a big revolver and terrifying the passengers. Conductor Hilby tried to secure the gun and a fight for its possession took place, during which the gun was discharged, Hilby being shot in the hand and leg, but both are flesh wounds and will not prove serious. The Italian was taken from the train and brought to Tacoma, where he was examined as to his sanity.

Anti-Jap Stickers in Pasco.

Pasco—In every business house in the city where Japanese labor is employed, small yellow stickers with the words "Fire the Jap," plaster the walls. In saloons, beer and whiskey glasses are masses of stickers, and in the Japanese restaurants noodle bowls and tea urns represent gaudy bill boards on which are displayed in bold type "Fire the Jap."

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

Tacoma—A Northern Pacific passenger train was wrecked Saturday night at Bristol, near Stampede tunnel. Engineer James Hammond, of Tacoma, and Fireman John Johnson, were killed. The mail car and some of the coaches left the track and are in the river.

The Bribe That Failed.

Among Father Dempsey's steady boarders was a fellow named Delaney. He was drunk as often as he could get that way. Father Dempsey tried all manner of means to get Delaney to quit drinking. At last he said to him:

"Delaney, my man, if you'll stop drinking for six months I'll give you a check at the end of that time for $50."

"Indeed, if I stopped for six months I could write you a check for $100," answered Delaney, and Father Dempsey in telling of it later added:

"And indeed he could, too, for he's a No. 1 mechanic."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Rapid Rhyme.

In illustration of the working powers of George R. Sims, the dramatist and poet, it is said that one night a new piece was produced at a leading theater in London. Sims sat it out and then returned to his office, where he wrote a column and a half of criticism in rhyme. It was near the time for the paper to go to press when he began, and the boy took the piece verse by verse from him to the composing room, the boy walking continuously from one to the other for an hour.
