SALEM BOOSTER OFFERS ADVICE

we can safely say that the greatest part of this improvement is due to the paving of streets together with the advent of the Oregon Electric Railway and other transportation lines.

"I have often thought that the paving of streets in the smaller towns would give an impetus for growth that would be surprising. I am glad to notice that the talk is circulating freely in Independence relative to paving of the several blocks of the main part of the town. This will materially add to the appearance and give Independence a boost that will put her along side of other cities in the valley. There is no reason why Independence should not have her share of the booming and prosperity that is felt throughout the valley generally. The writer has had opportunity to be in close touch with the improvement and advancement that is going on in Salem and can say truthfully that the improvements are due largely to the push of the people. More largely is the new Salem due to street paving than to any other influence. This coming year there is proposed some forty or fifty blocks of this hard surface pavement. One or two blocks in any small town is enough to show what paving will do for a city. The good that would result from that amount of work will arouse the enthusiasm of every resident, and the cry would be 'more pavement.' One improvement already under way in Independence is the sewer system and that is a big boost for the city. Independence already has as fine water as any city in the valley, Portland not excepted. There is no reason why Independence should not come to the front and take her place among the productive cities of the valley."
