The greatest need then is Electric Bitters, the splendid tonic, blood purifier and regulator of stomach, liver and kidneys. Thousands have proved that they wonderfully strengthen the nerves, build up the system and restore health and good spirits after an attack of grip. If suffering, try them. Only 50c. INDEPENDENCE VOTES BOND ISSUE OF TWENTY THOUSAND

Monday was election day in this city. It was a regular old Missouri election time. The people took off their coats to it and made real work of it. It was the occasion of the subject of the voters the proposition to issue the city for $20,000 to be used to power the town. It was the most enthusiastic election in the history of Independence and the bond issue carried with a higher per cent of favor than anyone has guessed that it would. Even the estimate of the Enterprise of last week, that it would carry by eighty per cent, was lowered. There were but twenty votes cast at the election unfavorable to the project and those twenty, it is rumored on the streets, were cast by an element of the city who just wanted to be obstinate.

That an era of progress and prosperity is dawning for the city of Independence is the belief of everyone

ETHICS OF THE SCHOOL ROOM

ABLE ADDRESS OF PROFESSOR J. G. McINTOSH

TO BE DELIVERED AT THE LOCAL SESSION OF TEACHERS' INSTITUTE TODAY AND TOMORROW IN SCHOOL BUILDING.

In treating of this subject I shall not presume to give definite instructions as to the manner in which a teacher should conduct herself. It will be my aim to suggest a few of the rules and principles which should operate in the discharge of their duties in relation to both those in authority over them and those subordinate to them. I may have something to say to all teachers in general but I shall confine my remarks more particularly to the teachers of the graded schools; the under instructors or assistants.

It should be the duty of every conscientious teacher to co-operate sympathetically and intelligently with her principal. In this we have the first principle of a strong and mighty nation; "in unity there is strength". A teacher who cannot work harmoniously with her associates at once shows her disqualification for the profession and she should abandon the calling for one to which she is more suited. The principal should not be regarded as a task-master by the teacher nor should he be regarded as ruling with authority. The principal will labor to unify the efforts of teachers. He alone is responsible to the school board for the actions and conduct of associate teachers. He will seek out those who are working for the best interests of his school and will decide upon plans for cooperation intended to bring best results and greatest value to the district. The duties of a teacher do not end with the discharge of her school work. She forms a part for the general education and life of the community as well as the more special work of her individual school department.

This brings me to the second phase of my subject, viz.; a teacher's duty to her pupils and patrons. Upon her attitude toward pupils and patrons depends her success to a pre-eminent degree. In the inevitable controversies which arise, a teacher is called upon to exercise forbearance, kindness and tactfulness. It is a matter in which not only her interest lies but is a moral obligation. Only in her most earnest desire to reconcile conflicting interests for all concerned will she be enabled to meet all the problems growing out of her relations to the community life about her. To parents seeking information regarding the school work of their children it is but right and proper that the teacher should furnish a truthful report, be it good, bad or indifferent. Too often failures follow such circumstances through fear of injury to the feelings of parents as well as of pupils. Under positive circumstances tell the truth; in doubt give the pupil the benefit. Avoid flattery in any form as poor policy. In cases of failure on the part of a pupil a better impression will be made by telling the truth. To polish up the case in such a manner as to mislead the parent not only injures the child but will result in condemnation of the teacher in her practice of duplicity. Aim at a fair representation of school work in displaying a pupil before principal or visitor, that the pupil may not acquire the habit of deception.

Practice courtesy to pupils and patrons alike. Politeness is one of the prime factors of success in any calling. Request rather than command. In extreme cases it is the part of wisdom to employ courtesy. Inasmuch as teachers also are fallible they should be slow to resent honest criticism. A teacher should avoid engaging in factional controversy that her action should be governed free of prejudice and in accordance with right and justice. Order is a means to an end and that end the foundation of character, the training of self-restraint and the investing of discipline. To that end the attitude of the teacher toward the more troublesome pupils should be tempered with kindness and consideration that in him may be developed the self-respect essential to his reclamation. In consideration of such, pupils may reasonably expect regard for personal rights, deferential politeness, culture and punctuality.

The end of education is character. The teacher's life should be an inspiration to the pupils of better accomplishments. No teacher can se-

HILL RAILWAYS GRIDIRON STATE

CENTRAL OREGON TO GET HER DUES.

PROJECTED LINES WILL CONNECT ONTARIO AND COOS BAY, CONNECTING WITH OREGON ELECTRIC AND GRAND TRUNK.

That James J. Hill will build an east and west line of railway across central Oregon, from Ontario to Coos Bay, was stated on good authority during the past week. The projected line will connect with the Grand Trunk, the Hill road now being built up the Deschutes, and with the Oregon Electric in the Willamette valley, believed to be another Hill property.

This will mean a gridiron of new railroads for Oregon during the coming few years that will bring about a development in this state never before approached. All central Oregon needs is railroads; it has everything else but people and the railroads will bring them.
