ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS

WORK CLOSED SATURDAY NIGHT UNTIL NEXT DECEMBER.

OF THE ESPECIALLY URGED MEASURES CONTAINED IN PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ONLY SIX CARRIED TO ADOPTION.

After a final day of double pressure congress adjourned Saturday night until December with a remarkable record of work and all factions claiming the greater part of the credit.

The president's annual message covered the whole legislative field. The program which he especially urged contained about eighteen measures, of which six were adopted. The regulars claim credit for everything done that was mentioned in his message. The insurgents and democrats see the results far differently. The railroad bill, the main issue of the session, as adopted, bore practically no semblance to the original Taft-Wickersham bill, the insurgents claiming that the president had nothing left of it but the commerce court.

The great bulk of the work was done in the last month, and a very important part during the last week. In the early half of the session the house was not industrious and the senate did practically nothing at all.

A Billion Dollars Appropriated
More than a billion dollars was appropriated, if continuing appropriations are incorporated in the totals of the general appropriation measures. Insofar as the figures could be obtained from measures which underwent changes in the last hours of the session, the total of the appropriations, exclusive of continuing appropriations, was $894,086,943.

The amount of the continuing appropriations for the last fiscal year was about $160,000,000. It is safe to say that it will not be less for the next fiscal year, and the grand total therefore will aggregate at least $1,054,000,000.

Not the least conspicuous acts of congress were the strenuous measures taken by the house of representatives to reform its system of conducting business, so that less power might be reposed in the speaker and the organization of which he was the natural leader.

Important Bills Passed

Revision of the railroad laws, including the creation of a commerce court.

Admitting Arizona and New Mexico as separate states.

Postal savings bank.
Giving to the president unlimited authority to withdraw public lands for conservation purposes.

Providing for publicity of campaign contributions.

Authorizing the issue of $20,000,000 in certificates of indebtedness to complete reclamation projects.

Creating a bureau of mines.

Extending activities of the tariff board and appropriating $250,000 for its use.

Looking to the suppression of the "white slave" traffic.

Creating a commission to consider economies in the administration of the federal government.

Authorizing a tariff system for the Philippines.

Providing for greater safety of railroad employes and travelers.

An appropriation of $300,000 to be used by the attorney-general in enforcing the Sherman anti-trust law.

$300,000 was appropriated for the raising of the wreck of the battleship Maine.

Last Day of Races

The last day of the races, which occurred Friday afternoon, had a better attendance than any other day of the meet. Sunny Jim won in the 2:15 pace with Lou Miller second and Lord Sidney Dillon third. Best time of the four heats in this race was 1:06 1/4. In the last heat of this race for failure to drive to a winning finish, Lindsay, driver of Lord Sidney Dillon, was fined $50. In the 4 1/2 furlong dash Carl P pulled down first money with Hector a close second and Princess Viola third. Blacksmith had an easy victory in the 2:17 trot for a purse of $150 winning the first three heats. May Tilden came second, Dolly McKinney third and Zo Zo fourth. Time, 1:11.

Percival's St. Salvania was victorious in the 3/4-mile dash; Joe Gaffney came second, Kamsack third. Time, 1:18.

Lawyer Out for Congress

A. W. Lafferty, a Portland lawyer, whose activities in connection with the claims of the Siletz Indian reservation settlers have attracted considerable attention, has announced his candidacy for congress. Lafferty will be opposed to Representative Ellis, who seeks re-election, for the Republican nomination in the direct primary September 24.

MRS. WM. KURRE TELLS FACTS

Report of the incidents leading up to the death of W. J. Crabtree, account of which was taken from an Albany dispatch to the Oregonian last week, vary widely from that account. Mrs. Wm. Kurre, of this city, hands the following to the Enterprise:

Wm. Hiron came to the home of W. J. Crabtree on the day of his death, where he met Mrs. Crabtree to whom he talked in a rude manner.

Mrs. Crabtree went to the barnyard where Mr. Crabtree was in discourse with a neighbor, and was followed by Mr. Hiron. Mr. Crabtree took him to task for the manner in which he had treated Mrs. Crabtree when Hiron fell to abusing Mr. Crabtree.

Mr. Crabtree undertook to forcibly rebuke Mr. Hiron when the neighbor who was present interfered, whereupon Mr. Hiron was ordered from the premises of Mr. Crabtree. To this request Mr. Hiron paid no attention but continued to force the quarrel. Mr. Crabtree made an attempt to strike Mr. Hiron. With the efforts of the blow and the weakness of his heart he was overcome and fell forward in the arms of Mr. Hiron dead.

Mr. Crabtree was sixty-one years of age, instead of seventy-one, as stated in the account last week. He was an Oregon pioneer, having crossed the plains in 1853.

WOULD CREDIT HOME DUTIES

PROF. ALDERMAN GIVES MANY PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

ON ENTERPRISE' SOLICITATION WRITES ARTICLE ON "SCHOOL CREDIT FOR THE PERFORM- ANCE OF HOME DUTIES".

That civilization is founded on the home, all will agree. The school should be a real helper of the home. How can the school help the home? How can it help the home establish habits in the children of systematic performance of home duties so that they will be efficient and joyful home helpers? One way is for the school to take into account home industrial work and honor it. It is my conviction based upon careful and continuous observation, that the school can greatly increase the interest the child will take in home industrial work by making it a subject of consideration at school. A teacher talked of sewing, and the girls sewed. She talked of ironing, and they wanted to learn to iron neatly. She talked of working with tools, and both girls and boys made bird-houses, kites, and other things of interest. A school garden was planned in a city, and one of the boys was employed to plow the land. Seventy-five children were watching for him to come with the team. At last he came driving around the corner. He could manage a team. He drove into the lot, and a hundred and fifty eyes looked with admiration at the boy who could unhitch from the sled and hitch on to the plow, and then as he "man fashion"—lines over one shoulder and under one arm—drove the big team around the field, all could feel the children's admiration for the boy who could do something worth while. I have seen a girl who could make good bread or set a table nicely, get the real admiration of her schoolmates.

The school can help make better home builders. It can help by industrial work done in the school, but as that is already receiving consideration by the press and in a few schools, I shall not in this short article treat of it.

The plan I have in mind will cost no money, will take but little school time, and can be put in operation in every part of the state at once. It will create a demand for expert instruction later on. It is to give school credit for industrial work done at home. The mother and father are to be recognized as teachers, and the school teacher put into the position of one who cares about the habits and tastes of the whole child. Then the teacher and the parents will have much in common. Every home has the equipment for industrial work and has somebody who uses it with more or less skill.

The school has made so many demands on the home that the parents have, in some cases, felt that all the time of the child must be given to the school. But an important thing that the child needs along with school work is established habits of home making, and these habits can come only from real home making. What one does depends as much upon habit as upon knowledge. The criticism that is most often made upon industrial work at school is that it is so different from the work done at home that it does not put the child into that sympathetic relation with the home, which after all is for him and the home the most important thing in the world. Juvenile institutions find that they must be careful not to institutionalize the child to the extent that he may not be contented in a real home. In my opinion it will be a great thing for the child to want to help his parents do the task that needs to be done and to want to do it in the best possible way. The reason that so many country boys are now the leading men of affairs is be-
