PREDOMINATION OF PRINCIPLE

The republican assembly has met and adjourned, so far as the present is concerned, and they returned to their homes heartily pleased with the success which attended the county convention. It was, indeed, a success far beyond the expectation of the most extravagant hopes of the party. The most perfect harmony prevailed throughout the day in all the deliberations and delegates from the various precincts returned to their homes conscious that a new era has dawned for the party which is intended to aid in uniting the people for better government and in engaging candidates who will do credit to the various offices of public trust in the county when elected.

The ticket from top to bottom is made with a view to fitness and qualification. In accepting their nominations many of the candidates are known to be making personal sacrifices, sacrifices that could hardly be expected of them were they not urged by men deeply moved by principle. These candidates are throwing themselves into the breach for the sake of good government. The condescension of such a man as Ira C. H. No. 1, lies upon our table. During Powell to consent to nomination for the past ten years the society has representative of Polk county is too issued over five thousand pages of apparent for comment. It is more a historical matter relating to the "Oregon Country"—the entire Pacific people of the county will join his consent to have his name on the ticket. sources, and edited by Prof. F. G.

The same can be said of William L. Bice, one of the prominent business men of Independence. In accepting the nomination he is conscious of the insignificance of the office and the failure of the state legislature to put that office on a proper basis of remuneration. Who will deny that Mr. Bice is making a sacrifice to accept the nomination for sheriff of Polk county, an office which offers a compensation of only $1200 a year? The attention to his business here in Independence is worth more than twice that amount. He has caught the spirit of the times and has put duty ahead of personal convenience.

E.M. Smith has grown so indispensable to the clerk's office that it is a foregone conclusion that no change will be made at the forth-coming election. This is conceded by all.

Teal for commissioner, John L. Castle for treasurer and R. L. Chapman for coroner rounds out the strongest ticket ever put before the voters of Polk county for their suffrage.

MUCH VALUABLE HISTORY

The Quarterly of The Oregon Historical Society for March, 1910, Vol. II, No. 1, lies upon our table. During the past ten years the society has issued over five thousand pages of historical matter relating to the "Oregon Country"—the entire Pacific Northwest—all secured from original sources, and edited by Prof. F. G.

Young, Secretary. No publication of a similar character in the United States has a higher standing or is more eagerly sought for by those who desire to acquaint themselves with the genesis of the American settlement west of the Rocky mountains. The contents of the present issue are as follows: "Oregon Counties: Their Creations and the Origins of Their Names," the annual address by Mr. Frederick V. Holman, president of the society, at the annual meeting, December 18, 1909; "Opinion of Wm. D. Fenton on the Power of the Legislature to Increase the Number of Justices Constituting the Supreme Court of Oregon." It is interesting to note that this opinion, given January 13, 1899, was sustained by the Supreme Court of Oregon on December 21, 1909. The address by Mr. Holman, from a purely historical point of view, is one of the most important ever delivered in the state. Months of time were spent in preparation, and great care exercised in establishing every statement made by reference to original sources. This address will be of great service to every educational institution and business office in the Pacific Northwest, as it affords the starting point for all future county history. Copies may be secured by sending to George H. Himes, Assistant Secretary, City Hall, Portland, Oregon.

Big Salmon Pack in Sight.

ASTORIA.—While there is not a large run of salmon, every interest is getting some, so in the aggregate the canneries and cold storage plants are at work every day.

It is not possible at this time to figure the pack accurately, but the cold storage output is fully 50 per cent ahead of this time last year and the cannery pack is about 30 per cent ahead. If natural conditions exist during the balance of the season there will be the largest pack in a number of years.
