A Green Food Ruck.

A skillful device for furnishing green feed to poultry consists of a frame made several inches high and covered with netting. Oats, or any preferred crop may be sowed and the rack with netting placed over it when of suitable size and the fowls then turned loose. They seem to delight in walking about on the netting and snipping off the green blades within reach. Yet, they cannot get at the roots to scratch and the plants have a chance to renew their growth thus pruned off, and the fowls are continually adding fertilizing material. For poultry kept on close range as a means of furnishing food the plan is certainly commendable.

SINCLAIR'S ODD FOOD FADS

"Bill" Fuller, Father-in-Law of the Author, Didn't Enjoy Meals at Arden.

"Bill" Fuller is a philosopher, which he needs to be, inasmuch as he is Upton Sinclair's father-in-law. He admires Sinclair, the Cincinnati Times-Star's New York correspondent writer, and has no criticism whatever to make on the differences which have developed between his daughter and the young writer. "They're both high-brows," says Fuller, "and Heaven knows that two highbrows can't get along. Why, even one highbrow can't get along."

But he doesn't approve of Sinclair's dietary ideas. "I never know," said he, "when I take a meal with Uppie, whether he will declare that the only sane diet is to chew a prune 400 times and then rub the stone in the hair, or whether he will want forty pounds of raw meat and a couple of uncooked cabbages. He doesn't run true to form, one might say. He never has the same idea about food twice in succession. Once I visited him at Arden, where he had planned a sort of socialistic Garden of Eden. By and by I began to need my fodder.

"When do we eat?" I asked Uppie. "There," said he, "is a loaf of whole wheat bread, and the spring is only 200 yards away." He began to tell me that this sort of cold poultice was all my stomach needed.

"That may be all right for your stomach," said I, "but my stomach has been pampered. When does the next meal come?"

"In which direction?" asked Uppie.

"Any direction," said I.

"But before I left I did one good deed. I'd noticed a peaked kind of a pup leaning against the wall of Uppie's shack. The colored maid said the dog was 'stubborn.'

"He jes' won't eat his tomatoes," says this dingo. "An' Mistah Sinclair says tomatoes is a perfect food for a dog."

"I guess that's right," says I. "That's all they're fit for. But before I go me and the dog are going to have a feast."

"So I went out and bought five pounds of steak, and I broiled it over an open fire and the dog and me eat the whole works. The fragrance of the broiling brought Uppie out of his tent. He stood there looking at us, with tears in his eyes and water on his lips.

"My goodness," says Uppie, "I believe I'm getting hungry."

"Good," says I. "Have a tomato."

"Upie."

Busy Word.

There is no word, long or short, in the English language capable of performing so much labor in a clear, intelligible sense as the verb to get; and here is an old-time specimen of its capabilities

"I got on horseback within ten minutes after I got your letter. When I got to Canterbury I got a chaise for town; but I got wet through before I got to Canterbury and I have got such a cold as I shall not be able to get rid of in a hurry. I got to the treasury about noon, but first of all I got shaved and dressed; I soon got into the secret of getting a memorial before the board, but I could not get an answer then; however, I got the intelligence from the messenger that I should most likely get one the next morning. As soon as I got back to my inn I got my supper. When I got up in the morning I got my breakfast and then got myself dressed that I might get out in time to get an answer to my memorial. As soon as I got it I got into the first chaise and got to Canterbury by three o'clock, and about tea time I got home."

The Patient Waiter.

Prof. W. Lawson Tall, apropos of the new serum cure for hay fever, said at a medical banquet in Denver: "This cure is the result of patience, the result of much patient toil. Indeed, when I think of the patient waiting involved in the perfecting of this cure, I am reminded of Dr. Bob Sawyer's ante-room.

"Dr. Bob Sawyer stepped proudly into his ante-room one day. There were quite eight or nine persons there. And Dr. Bob, looking from one face to another with complacence, said: "Well, who comes first? Who's been waiting the longest?"

"Here, doc—that's me," said Snip the tailor, rising and flourishing his unpaid bill. "I've been waiting over eighteen months!"

Spare the Rod.

Parents take notice.

The advocates of whipping as a means of discipline are accustomed to quote King Solomon as saying: "Spare the rod and spoil the child." What King Solomon did say was: "He that sparoth the rod hateth his son." But the word "rod" in that connection does not necessarily mean corporal punishment. It simply means parental authority and guidance. The same Hebrew word is used in Psalms, xliii, where David says: "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want; his rod and his staff they comfort me." The rod was the symbol of authority and power, not a rawhide, a ruler or a hickory stick.—Exchange.

For the Teeth.

The chemical action of peroxide of hydrogen upon gold teeth, which makes an unpleasant taste in the mouth, can be destroyed by using salt with the liquid. Its whitening virtues are excellent.

Mirrors in Decorations.

In the sixteenth century no lady was considered in full dress unless she had a mirror at her breast. It was oval in shape about 4 by 6 inches in size.

The next time you feel that swallowing sensation gargle Hamlin's Wizard Oil immediately with three parts water. It will save you days and perhaps weeks of misery from sore throat.

Table Talk.

"The more I see of men, the more I like dogs," declared the pessimistic boarder. "Five some sausage, Mr. Wombat," suggested the landlady.—Washington Herald.

A Queer Customer.

"Mandy," said the village tailor to his wife, "I'm going to give Sam Billings a suit of clothes for a pig." "My goodness, papa!" exclaimed his little daughter. "what does a pig want with a suit of clothes?"

It's odd that pickpockets are such an unpopular class.

"I can't see why they should be popular." "Don't they always keep in touch with the multitude?"

WHY THE CHICKEN BUSINESS PAYS.

According to government reports, more than 300,000,000 chickens were marketed in the United States in 1920, and the value of eggs marketed was $480,000,000, equal to that of the entire wheat crop of the nation. Oregon is contributing to the Eastern markets over $1,000,000 per annum for eggs alone. Why not share in some of this money?

WOULD BE HIS UNDESIRABLES.

Ambassadors from a besieged town were treating with Alexander the Great on the terms of surrender. Alexander ordered that Acuphis, the eldest of the ambassadors, should be the governor of the town, and that he should send immediately as hostages 100 of the best citizens. Acuphis then smilingly observed: "Sir, I could govern better if thou wouldst permit me to send thee 100 of the worst citizens instead of 100 of the best."

The Blushing Octopus.

The octopus frequently changes its color, like a marine cameleon. It would appear, from recent studies of the creature, that the colored pigment whereby this change in color is effected is contained in envelopes in its skin, in the tissues of which are muscular fibers actuated by nerves. Should these fibers become relaxed a dark pigment appears. The phenomenon is said to be analogous to blushing.—Harper's Weekly.

London's Italian Colony.

The Italians in London, England, are sufficient of themselves to form a large town. There are as many as 14,000, about 2,000 of whom are ice-cream vendors and 1,000 organ-grinders. The other 11,000 are chiefly engaged as plaster bust sellers, artists' models, cooks, valets, teachers, artists, restaurant and hotel keepers, and so on.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

Origin of Uncut.

The seashore book shop was crowded. Best sellers at $1.15, $1.25 and even $1.50 were going like hot cakes. The proprietor, pushing through a throng of pretty girls in white, said joyously: "We don't need to handle uncut in this glorious country of ours. Why actually, I've just had to wire to New York for two extra salesmen."

"But what has that got to do with the uncut?" the reporter inquired.

"Uncut," said the dealer, "are books with uncut edges. They originated in Scotland. In Scotland, in the past, a man would enter your shop today, read a chapter of some book or other and saunter out without buying anything. Tomorrow he would read another chapter gratis, and by the end of the month he would have finished the volume and be well into another.

"Hence the Scottish publishers and booksellers hit on the uncut, which you can't read without buying."

The dealer helped a pretty girl to stow in her limousine a stack of best sellers.

"But thank fortune," he said, "we don't need uncut here."

Pick Up Fallen Fruit.

Keep all the fallen fruit picked up. The best way to do this is to have sheep or hogs in the orchard; they will eat the fallen ones. These fallen fruits contain the grubs of insects, and by killing them you lessen next year's pests.
