Bird Music! Bah!

Lying on the soft grass before his tent, a camper sipped a tin cup of coffee and listened to the birds. "You'd think from all this pure melody," he said, "that birds were musical—that, like the New York critics, they loved the best and only the best. But, as a matter of fact, they have a degraded taste. The thrush and the lark are as wrong in their musical ideas as Puccini and Leoncavallo are said to be."

"I have tested the thrush. I have set him to learning the notes of the nightingale. But he doesn't care for the nightingale's divine music. He will have none of it. The sparrow's ugly twitter, on the other hand, he masters with delight."

"The finch and the mockingbird are the same. They won't learn fine music, the music of Beethoven or Chopin or Wagner, but they take to ragtime and jigs like a pig to hog-wash."

"Hark to that burst of melody from the blue crow! You'd think the singers aspired. But if thrush or lark or mockingbird went to New York, the critics would say their music was as rotten as that of Thais of Tosca."

Unfortunate sport.

"Possums are abundant around Watsboro," says the Luenenburg Tribune, "but a man in that neighborhood went out hunting the other night, and after his dogs got after something he cut down two trees and finally ran his own cat into the dining-room at his own home."

TO MESMERIZE A LOBSTER.

More or Less Valuable Scientific Information, According as to How One is Interested.

Sparkling gems of good reading and humorous bits of information are gleaned for this page from the most dignified and serious scientific reports. Here is another. The annual report of the Northumberland Sea Fisheries committee for 1911 has just been issued with the customary routine statistics on trawling and selling, sea temperatures and crops. And then the report proceeds to give valuable directions on the best way to mesmerize lobsters.

"The usual way is to hold the lobster head down," says the report, "with the claws arranged so as to form a support with the rostrum, and to stroke it rapidly with the tips of the fingers, i. e., to stroke the back of the carapace, or shell covering the crustacean's head and thorax. In about a minute the lobster succumbs, and remains without movement in this position for a variable period. In order to see whether the reversed position, as driving the blood to the head, was essential, a lobster was treated in the horizontal attitude, and so successfully that it remained without movement for three hours. A Norway lobster subjected to a similar treatment was quiescent for fifty minutes. A lobster can be put to sleep on its back."

It is evident that other crustaceans are amenable to the same treatment at the hands of the mesmerist. To quote some more: "The crab goes to sleep usually in the tucked-up condition, and may be left in the natural position or on its back. They all recover when disturbed; but the recovery of the lobster appears to be quicker if the under surface of the cephalothorax is disturbed."

FIND WONDERS OF NATURE

Magnifying Glass Powerful Almost Beyond Belief is the Invention of English Scientist.

Just imagine seeing things through a magnifying glass millions and millions of times more powerful than the most powerful microscope on earth today. Imagine what a tiny drop of water would look like magnified until it appeared as big as the earth itself.

Up until a very short time ago the spectroscope was the finest instrument of analysis available for chemical and scientific research. If, after vainly trying all other tests, the scientist wished to know of what some mixed substance was made he burned it and converted it into gas and directed a ray of the gas against a prism of glass. This prism broke the light up into a band of colors streaked with dark lines. By examining the lines and the colors the scientist was able to tell of what the burnt substance was composed.

And now an instrument which is declared to be one million million times more exact than the spectroscope is being tested at the Cavendish laboratory, Cambridge university, by Sir J. J. Thomson, whose recent researches have given promise of entirely revolutionizing the fundamental science of the structure of matter. With his new magnifying apparatus, a combination of spectroscope and photographing camera, Sir J. J. Thomson is said to have been able to detect chemical combinations which exist only in that part of a second which compares to a second as a second compares to a year.

BEAR VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

Story Seems at First to Be Fiction, but the Facts Are Well Authenticated.

There seems to be something inconsistent about the idea of a Polar bear contracting a bad cold in mid-winter, but that is exactly what happened a few weeks ago. Moreover, the bear's cold grew worse instead of better; pneumonia set in and the animal died. This was in the famous zoological gardens at London. After the bear's death a post-mortem examination showed that pneumonia was the cause of it.

At first sight it would appear unnatural that natives of the Polar regions should succumb to the cold of warmer countries. In the Arctic colds and pneumonia are extremely rare. The poor bear in captivity was sadly handicapped, however, and the comparatively warm winter to be spent in a nice comfortable den in the zoo contained more dangers of colds for him than he would have found splashing about in icy water and sleeping on icebergs and in snow drifts in the Arctic regions. When winter approaches Polar bears in their native haunts choose some sheltered spot, make a burrow in the snow and pass into a state of hibernation. In captivity the bears do not hibernate, but remain as active as in summer, coming out to feed and moving about even if shut in their dens.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For twenty years I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation.
Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have such terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed. "Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after taking it for two months I was a well woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

Women who suffer from female ills should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of the most successful remedies the world has ever known, before submitting to a surgical operation.

His Security.

When Elton Folsom asked Squire Lane to lend him $200 to invest in that dry good business, the squire inquired what Mr. Folsom had to offer him in the way of security.

"Security?" said Eben, with an air of injured dignity. "Well, squire, I'll tell you what I have to offer: Three solid silver teaspoons, a handsome brass warming-pan, a pair of decalcomany vases, large size, and the material for as much as three feather beds, if you four, right on the backs of my flock of geese, and five Plymouth Rock hens."

"You can call 'em all yours till I pay the money back, and I'll take care of 'em free of charge. I don't know what anybody could want more'n that for security."—Youth's Companion.

Novelty Brings Profits.

A New York grocer has combined an advertising novelty and a source of profit in a butter churn, which is in almost constant operation in his store. The churn is driven by a small electric motor and the scheme is to sell a patron a quantity of cream and then, for a small charge, churn it into butter. The operation takes but a few minutes.

The Chicago fire could have been prevented with one pail of water, but the water was not handy. Keep a bottle of Hamlin's Wizard Oil handy and prevent the fiery pains of inflamation on.

Carried Off Dickens Debris.

Everybody knew Dickens. He could not dine in public without attracting attention. When he left the dining-room, his admirers would descend upon his table and carry off eggshells, orange peels and other things that remained behind, so that they might have memorials of this great and much loved writer.—Munsey's.
