Formation of Icebergs.
The proportion of an iceberg which will be under water is determined by comparing the density of the ice with that of the surrounding sea water. The densities of ice and sea water are nearly 92 and 103, respectively, from which it can be calculated that only about one-ninth of the berg's bulk is visible above the surface. No iceberg could float with one-third of its actual bulk out of water, but if it were irregularly formed, with peaks, it might seem to be much less than eight-ninths submerged.

Liquid blue is a weak solution. Avoid it. Buy Red Cross Ball Blue, the blue that's all blue. Ask your grocer.

What Dress is to Woman.
Fashion is woman's literature. Dress is the expression of her personal style. By dress she conveys the outward expression of her taste, of her skill, and even of her aesthetic individuality. It is thus that she contrives to charm the eyes of the arts, the art containing all the others. It is not the expression of her characteristic style, as we have said, but it is her palette, her poem, her theatrical setting, her song of triumph.

Forced to Rely on Candles.
Very few houses in the French West Indies possess kerosene lamps, candles being commonly used for household illumination. The import duty makes it impossible for the people, who are poor, to use either kerosene or gasoline.

DAY OF OLD GLORY

the former president, the purchaser of Louisiana, the chastiser of the Barbary pirates, the founder of the University of Virginia, as the scholar, the philosopher and the savant, he was known the world over.

Every day for at least eight months in the year brought its contingent of guests to Monticello. People of wealth, fashion, men of office, professional men, military and civil, lawyers, doctors, Protestant clergy, Catholic priests, members of congress, foreign ministers, missionaries, Indian agents, tourists, artists, strangers, friends, some came from affection and respect, some from curiosity; some to give or receive advice or instruction, some from idleness, some because others set the example. And everybody who could not visit "the sage of Monticello" at least gave thought to the great retired man of the nation.

Jefferson retained his health nearly to his last days, and had the happiness of living to the fiftieth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. He died at Monticello at 12:40 p. m. on July 4, 1826. He was buried in his own graveyard at Monticello, beneath a stone upon which was engraved an inscription prepared by his own hand: "Here is buried Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, of the Statute of Virginia, for Religious Liberty and Father of the University of Virginia."

"The sage of Monticello" stands to day next to "the father of his country" in the esteem of the United States. And this is as it should be, for his wise counsel helped to establish this nation as firmly as did the arms and statesmanship of George Washington.

Where Jefferson Wrote the Declaration of Independence.

horseback. The mansion at Monticello, thanks to Tarleton's orders, escaped serious pillage or damage. Though the house itself was not plundered or burned, the rest of Jefferson's property suffered severely at the hands of the enemy. All the stock and farm products that might be of service were carried off, the rest being wantonly destroyed.

When Jefferson resigned from the Washington cabinet in 1794 he returned to Monticello to enjoy a retirement which he intended should last many years. But this was not to be. He was elected vice-president in 1796, and in 1800 he was chosen president.

In March, 1809, Jefferson, after a nearly continuous public service of forty-four years, retired to Monticello and to private life, but he was seriously impoverished that he was not sure of being allowed to leave Washington without arrest by his creditors, but this, fortunately, he was able to prevent. Toward the close of his life, however, he became distressingly embarrassed in his circumstances. In 1814 he sold his library to congress for $23,000, but through indorsing a note for a friend he was completely ruined, and was in danger of being compelled to surrender Monticello and seek shelter for his last days in another abode. But wealthy friends came to his assistance with a considerable sum of money.

"No cent of this," he wrote, "wring from the taxpayer. It is the pure and unsolicited offering of love." In the last seventeen years of his life Jefferson lived like a patriarch among his admiring friends. "The sage of Monticello" was the most prominent man in private life in the country. Even to the year of his death he was a great moral force in the land. As

BIG SORROW OF MATRIMONY
No Use Trying to Be Happy When Man's Wife Gives Him Sunday Cigar to Hired Man.

"Marriage is a good thing, but it has its drawbacks."
"Oh, well, we can't expect to have heaven on earth, you know."
"I realize that. Still it seems to me that things might be much better than they are."
"You are rather pessimistic."
"I have reason to be pessimistic."
"You merely imagine it. Why, there's no reason why any man who has a good job, a comfortable home, happy children, a pretty wife and robust health should be pessimistic at this time of the year. And you have all of these blessings."
"It's all right for a man who has no wife himself to hand out remarks of that kind."
"I hope no serpent has crept into your home."
"A friend of mine treated me to a 25-cent cigar day before yesterday, and I took it home and laid it away so that I could enjoy it after dinner on Sunday. Yesterday my wife got a man who was cleaning up our backyard to do some extra work for her and she gave him my cigar. I tell you, by golly, when a man gets married he may as well bid good-by to real happiness."

No Further Inquiry.
Down at the recent poultry show an exhibitor told us this:
"Yes, it's a lot of trouble to raise hens till you know how. I'll tell you a story about that very point. A man who looked as if he hadn't had anything to eat for a week or so leaned over the back fence of my park some time ago. I had my eye on him, and he saw I had my eye on him, so he started up a conversation.
"Must be a lot of expense to keep up such a lot of fowls," he said.
"Not such a much," says I.
"What's the principal items?" he wants to know.
"Powder an' 'shot,' I tells him.
"An', do you know, he never come back to ask no more questions? Diplomacy is a good thing to raise hens with, too."

UNAPPRECIATED KINDNESS.

Mrs. Suburbs—What did you do with the flower seeds?
Mr. Suburbs—Fed them to the chickens this morning. I thought I'd save the poor things the trouble of scratching them all up as soon as you planted them.

Might Be Desirable.
"A president has to eat a good deal these times."
"What do you mean?"
"The chief executive has to attend a great many banquets and the like."
"Seems so. What about it?"
"I was just thinking that the next president ought to recognize the growing importance of this social side of the job and appoint an addition to the cabinet in the shape of a toastmaster general."

Her Fatal Lack.
"Why did you refuse to engage that woman, and she such a splendid worker, just because she was deaf and dumb?"
"How do you suppose, if I took her, I was going to get any of the news of 'the neighborhood'?"

Departed Hair.
"A lock of Napoleon's hair recently sold for $50 at auction. Pretty high for a lock of hair, eh?"
"Oh, I don't know," responded the bald-headed man. "I think I'd be willing to pay at that rate for my own hair, if I could get it back."

Hard Guessing.
"The terms of today are very confusing."
"How do you mean?"
"When you hear a man talk about muck-raking, you do not know whether he is reading the popular magazines or starting a suburban garden."

A Dead Give-Away.
Wife—What would you do, George, if you were left a widow?
Hub—Oh, I suppose the same as you would do if you were left a widow.
Wife—You horrid wretch! And you told me you could never care for anybody else.

The Operation.
"How do you suppose a chair of the Simian language could be secured in a university?"
"I suppose it might be done with a monkey wrench."

A Mean Suggestion.
"The coining of half-cent pieces will be a great boon to many people I know."
"Why so?"
"Then they can afford to give tins."

Social Forms and Entertainments

Very Impolite.
Your valuable advice have helped me before, so I come to you again. This is a small town with but one play-house which changes programs every other night, or three performances a week. I took a couple girl friends there one evening and during the show they said they attended the night before and saw the same show. Now these girls knew the rules of the house, and so knew it would be the same performance. Was it proper to let me know before, or should they have told me at all?—"Stung."

If the girls you were kind enough to take to the show were so discourteous as to say they had seen it before, without your asking if they had, they certainly were lacking in good manners. If they had seen it and did not care to see it again they should have told you so and said they would be glad to go when the bill was changed, or they should have said nothing.

For an Announcement Party.
Will you kindly make a few suggestions for an announcement party. The announcement is to be made to a club of girls and I would be glad if you would make some suggestions for the lunch and some inexpensive favors.—Anxious.

Write an original story of the girl's life and wind up with the engagement, read this aloud as an interesting tale and "they" will all soon begin to catch on. Of course you use fictitious names. For favors have little baskets holding bon-bons tied with ribbons and a wee "wedding" bell tied to the handle. For luncheon have cream of asparagus soup, lamb chops, green peas, new potatoes, cherry salad, mint sherbet and small cakes.

Perplexing Question.
What should a girl tell a boy when he asks her if she loves him (if she really does love him) and he says he loves her but has never done anything to prove it?
How long should a girl of seventeen wear her dresses? How should she fix her hair?—"Country Girl."

I wonder how a seventeen-year-old girl knows if she really loves a boy or he her when they are both not much more than babies? Wait at least three years and then see how you both feel. Dresses should be just below the shoe tops and hair is very pretty in the Madonna braids around the head, either with or without bows.

Idea for a Dinner Party.
Will you give me a few suggestions for a dinner party?
How many courses?
What to serve?
What sort of a center-piece?
I don't want anything elaborate and for about six persons.—Waiting Bess.

Use the flowers available in a basket for the center of the table. Serve sardine appetizers for the first course, then cream of pea soup, fried or broiled chicken, asparagus on toast, new potatoes with butter and parsley, tomato and mayonnaise for salad, with cheese balls, and a frozen dessert with after-dinner coffee either in the drawing room or at the table.

Correct Use of Cards.
Will you please tell me the correct way of using cards when calling?—Ignorant Bride.

All you have to remember is to leave two of your husband's cards and one of your own when calling upon a couple, one of each for each woman and one of your husband's for each man in the household.

Reply to "J. S."
Your letter was most excellent considering you have only been in this country two years. The best advice I can give you is to see the principal of your home school and see what studies are required. Tell him your hopes and ambitions and I am sure you will find the desired assistance.

Reply to Dolly.
Boys usually like cushions, dress shirt protectors, silver key rings, silver pencils, card cases, etc. Send the gift as soon as you like before commencement and write "Congratulations and good wishes" on your card. Coats with collars are always in good style. Your writing is legible, but a bit ramped.

Reply to Jane.
Look in the dictionary in the proper pages to find out the meaning you wish to know. I think girls of seventeen are decidedly too young to marry. Wait two or three years, then think about it.

Reply to M. F. H.
Regarding the stain, the best thing to do is to consult a first-class druggist and see if he knows any chemical that will restore the color.

For the Hair

Are you so fortunate as to be well satisfied with your hair? Is it long enough, thick enough, rich enough? And your hair does not fall out? Well, well, that is good. But you may know of some not so fortunate. Then just tell them about Ayer's Hair Vigor. They will surely thank you after using it, if not before. Remember, it does not color the hair. Show the list of ingredients to your doctor. Let him decide their value. He knows.

Man First Carved Woman.
A piece of stone, 18 inches high, on which is roughly cut in bas-relief the figure of a woman, is the oldest known representation of the human form. It was discovered by Dr. Lajanne in excavations in the grottoes of Laussel, France, and is thought to be 20,000 years old. Scientists believe that it came between the ages of the mammoth and the reindeer, when the artist would have used shapened sticks as tools.

Elephant's Prestige in Siam.
The whole elephant tribe is looked upon with great veneration by the Siamese. The elephant is the symbolic animal of the country, and though his ponderous strength is daily used in his master's service, he is man's co-laborer, not his beast of burden.

Never let us be discouraged with ourselves. It is not when we are conscious of our faults that we are most wicked; on the contrary, we are less so. We see by a brighter light, and let us remember, for our consolation, that we never perceive our sins till we begin to cure them.—Fenslon.

IOWA WOMAN WELL AGAIN

Freed From Shooting Pains, Spinal Weakness, Dizziness, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms; shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid.
