Original "Gag Rule."
"Gag rule" was a phrase applied to a resolution passed by congress in May, 1836, that three-fourths of all petitions, memorials, resolutions, propositions or papers relating in any way to the subject of slavery or the abolition of slavery should lie on the table without being printed or referred. The rule was abolished a few years later.

Seashells Instead of Glass.
One curious thing noted by Americans in the Philippines was the use by natives of seashells in lieu of window glass. There is a bivalve mollusk, native to the waters of that part of the world, which has a shell seven or eight inches in diameter, so thin as to be transparent. It is plentiful and costs nothing. Glass is expensive.

It gives you self-respect and courage.
Heroism.
Heroism is always the same, however the fashion of a hero's clothes may alter. Every hero in history is as near to a man as his neighbor, and if we should tell the simple truth of some of our neighbors, it would sound like poetry.—George W. Curtis.

Aim High.
If you hit the mark you must aim a little above it; every arrow that flies feels the attraction of earth.—Longfellow.

How to Get Rich.
Some men would have no trouble in getting rich if they held on to the money they earn as they do to the money they borrow.

SLIM AND SIMPLE

Frocks Are Quite Unlike the Mode of Yesterday.

Waistlines Are Capricious; Sleeves of Various Styles; Supply of Silk Is Wondrous; Woollens Limited.

Everywhere one sees new clothes. At first glance they seem quite like the mode of yesterday—and one resolves with firmness to wear the things left over. One looks again, relates a writer in Harper's Bazar, and discovers a difference which lies not in the outlines but in a host of clever, artfully planned details—and one's resolution flies on wings.

In style all frocks are slim and simple—or at least they give that impression. The skirts are of the well-known "hobble" type, but they have all the delights and one of the regrets of the hobble we used to struggle with so valiantly. Instead of the uncomfortably close confines of other days, the new skirts are so skillfully folded and draped that though the slender lines are scrupulously maintained, the wearer has plenty of room in which to brave the curbstones!

Waistlines are indeed capricious, for while some reach aspiring heights, others startle with their length. A few staid and sober ones insist on being normal. Of girdles there are a plenty. If one would have the swathing kind—and one surely will—remember that it begins at the normal waistline and is draped to give the effect of a long, slender waist.

Sleeves, always a law unto themselves, are long and tight at times, again only three-quarters. Some are draped and some are "bells." Some are banded with fur and some with heavy material. Though the straight neckline is still much liked, distinctive collars of fur will stamp a gown as unmistakably new.

Silk is the mode, of course. And never were there such wondrous silken stuffs!

Wools there are—rough homespun, duvetyns, velours and jerseys—for suits and wraps that one may wear without a qualm, for the materials were manufactured and purchased long before there was any question of conservation. The supply, of course, is limited, and the tariff proportionately high.

WHEN ONE SITS UP IN BED

Knitted Nightgale Most Useful Garment When Ill or Reading in Bed.

The knitted nightgale is one of the most useful garments a sick person can possess, and it is certainly acceptable to anyone who likes to read in bed. Moreover, it is very easy to make and goes quickly. Any light-colored wool is nice for it, especially the silk and wool mixtures that can be purchased in pink, blue and lavender, or, better yet, the fluffed cotton that looks like wool.

The scarf itself is straight, with a purged cuff of 40 stitches done on very thin needles for two inches, and then increased to about 60 stitches on very large needles, and continued until the whole measures somewhere between 50 and 60 inches, depending on the length of the arms of the person for whom it is intended. It usually takes about four balls of wool for one. When it is finished the cuffs are sewed up and part of one edge is turned back with ribbon thread to make a collar, and give something to fasten it together. The whole is something like a big shawl, with a place at each end for the arms.

GOWN FOR AFTERNOON WEAR

Terra cotta satin forms this extremely attractive gown for afternoon wear. A touch of medieval days is seen in the peasant-like waist with its lacing at the neck. The skirt is plain with two fine and graceful ruffles.

ATTENTION TO GRAPEVINES

Some Sort of Artificial Protection Should Be Given Where Winters Are Very Severe.

Where the winter is so bitter that grapevines must be given some sort of artificial protection in order to keep them from being killed by the cold, the vines will need to be pruned just as quickly as they become dormant. In mild winters this may be rather late in the season. On the other hand, the early coming of bitter weather may necessitate pruning early in the winter season. The system of pruning practiced in these localities should be such as to permit laying down the stalk and canes to insure growth and bearing next year. These are covered with leaves, rubbish, little mixed with earth, etc., in such a manner as to keep the zero weather and below zero weather from freezing and killing them. In the spring this covering is removed just before the growth begins. All this makes it necessary to do the pruning before the stalks and canes are put to bed for the winter.

MAKING OVER OLD ORCHARDS

Many May Be Well Worth Saving on Account of Growing Demand—Pruning Is Urged.

With the growing demand for fruit, orchards that have stopped bearing because of disease or old age may be well worth saving, according to the horticultural department at the Wisconsin experiment station. Pruning is advised by way of making over the old orchard and restoring its usefulness.

Unless the fruit is of good variety, it will not pay the orchardist to bother with it, say the horticulturists. If the root system is not strong and living, then, too, the tree may as well be cut down. On the other hand, if the new growth is vigorous, the tree has a chance for life. The heart and trunk should be sound. In such a case, something may be done.

LOOK AFTER SLACKER TREES

Pruning Is Needed on Most Farms—Better to Leave Too Much Wood the First Year.

Uncle Sam expects that not only every man, but every tree and vine shall do its full duty. On most farms are trees that need pruning. First cut out the dead wood. Then thin out the branches that are interfering with the entrance of light and air. But don't overdo. Better leave too much wood the first year than take out too much, because the latter would throw the tree out of balance and wood instead of fruit would be the result.

Cause of Apple Canker.

Apple canker is caused by a fungus which develops in the growing layer and it should be cleaned out and the wound disinfected.

Harboring Place for Insects.

Dead and dying limbs are harboring places for many noxious insects, such as borers, pin-hole bark beetles.

Cut Dead Limbs Closely.

In cutting off dead or living limbs cut close to the tree and leave no stub, as it will not heal.

Provide Continuous Trips.

Immediate effort in linking together the good roads to provide continuous trips is imperative.

Road Greatly Improved.

By keeping a road drag and dragging the road along one's land after heavy rains the road may be greatly improved.

Maintain Those We Have.

Not only should we build better roads, but we should take pains to maintain those we already have.

She Earned It.

My little daughter came in with a penny. I asked her where she found it, and she said: "I earned it. You see, Carter called me a bad girl and I was going to fight him, but he had some pennies, so I told him if he would give me a penny I wouldn't fight him—and he did."

As You Like It.

Breaking all Records
Right now—when milk prices are breaking all records—is the time to make new high records in milk production. It is surprising how effectively this can be accomplished by raising the health standard of your dairy cows.
The most prevalent cow ailments—Abortion, Retained Afterbirth, Bunches, Lost Appetite, Scours, etc.—arise from an impaired condition of the genital and digestive organs. Kow-Kure has remarkable medicinal properties that act directly on these organs, producing regular, healthy action.
Feed dealers and druggists sell Kow-Kure, in 60c. and $1.20 packages.

Sure! High Heels Cause Corns But Who Cares Now

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poisons are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callous the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn callous, root and all, lifts off with fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn callous without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or harder callous. If your druggist hasn't freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.—Adv.

Made Him Devout Christian.

Gen. Lew Wallace said that he was writing "Ben Hur" he had no fixed religious convictions, but as the story grew and the Christ figure assumed reality his whole life was affected and when the work was complete he found himself for the first time in his life a devout Christian.
